Khrushchev Alleges 2 Persons Die In Accidents In Fox Cities

Ready for Talks in Moscow Or Anywhere Else in Europe

Moscow —P— Soviet Premier Khrushchev accused President Eisenhower today of trying to scuttle an east-west summit conference proposed for New York. He offered as an alternative to convene the talks in Moscow or any other place in Europe suitable to the four other powers.

By the four other powers he meant the United States, Britain, France and India. He said the Soviet government would guarantee the safety and security of the participants if they met in Moscow. He was making this offer, he said, because American diplomats and the American press had expressed concern about the difficulty of guaranteeing security of the participants if the meeting were held in New York.

May Change Position Khrushchev also said a meeting in Europe — "in Geneva, Vienna, Paris or any other place" — would support proposals of French Premier Charles de Gaulle.

The tone of the replies seemed to indicate Khrushchev was pulling sharply away from the idea of a high level U.N. security council meeting. Khrushchev said it was up to the five powers to settle the Middle East problem, because the security council had been discussing it and done nothing.

Accusing President Eisenhower directly, he said "you do not work for peace." He declared the Middle East was becoming "more like a powder keg," that the U. S. troop buildup in Lebanon was still going on, that Robert Murphy, President Eisenhower's envoy, was interfering in the domestic affairs of Lebanon, and that King Hussein of Jordan "dares to brandish arms and threaten a crusade on Baghdad."

"We continue to insist on a withdrawal of the interventionist troops from Lebanon and Jordan," he said. As for his proposal for a five-power summit meeting, he declared: "It seems that an effort is made to bury the previous idea of the conference. We cannot accept this."

Khrushchev went on: "Apparently you do not want

Freedom and Integrity Will be Guarded, Dulles Says at London Session

London —P— John Foster Dulles assured the Baghdad pact nations today the United States would act, even at great risk, to safeguard their independence and integrity against any threats.

The American secretary of state, in the role of observer, was addressing the fifth session of the Baghdad pact council which opened in Lancaster House with one member missing—Iraq.

Dulles' statement was made during a survey of the Middle East scene, in the course of which he set forth the significance of the American military landings in Lebanon.

The significance of those landings, Dulles declared, went far beyond the immediate situation inside Lebanon.

Suffered Loss

The secretary said the United States indeed might not have acted if Lebanon in isolation appeared threatened. But, he explained, events in that country had to be related with developments inside Iraq and a conspiracy inside Jordan against the life of King Hussein.

Dulles' remarks were relayed to reporters in a briefing after the council's morning session.

Prime Minister Macmillan opened the session with a declaration that the pact's four remaining members "intend to maintain the aims" of the alliance.

The British leader told the conference that "we have all suffered a great loss in the violent deaths of his majesty King Faisal and of our other staunch friends and allies."

"We intend to maintain the aims of our alliance and to consider how to do this in the light of the present situation," Macmillan continued.

"While we are necessarily faced with many difficulties, we do not, I am sure, mean to face them save with courage and together."

May Recognize Regime

"Our purpose is to reaffirm the intentions expressed in that instrument (the Baghdad pact) as a means for collective security."

On hand for the meeting were the prime ministers and foreign secretaries of Britain, Turkey, Pakistan and Iran as well as Dulles.

Iraq, the only Arab member of the anti-communist alliance, has not withdrawn from the treaty but appears unlikely to

Cardinal's Office Searched by Police

Warsaw —P— The office of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski said today a truckload of police broke down the Jasna Gora monastery gates and ransacked the cardinal's office there without a warrant.

The monastery is a national shrine. Cardinal Wyszynski's statement said the police beat up a man who tried to stop them, and that the raiders left after several hours with religious materials, books, accounts and tape recordings.

The action threatened to develop into a major crisis between the communist state and the Roman Catholic church.

The communists held the cardinal under house arrest for three years but released him in October, 1956. He said then the wrongs done the church had been repaired, but lately the relationship between church and state has grown tense again.

Sudden Squall Hits Rites Tonight County Crops, Farms For Chennault

15-Minute Blow Flattens Grain; Most Damage Around Medina

A squall caused heavy crop damage and some property damage in Outagamie and Waushara counties early this morning.

The area west of Appleton was the hardest hit in Outagamie county. Power and communication interruptions also were reported in northern Waushara county.

The wind, rain and hail storm struck Outagamie county about 2:30 this morning and lasted about 15 minutes. A downpour of .32 inches of rain was reported in Appleton during that period.

The Fox Cities escaped damage although some tree limbs were blown down.

The damage in the county apparently was restricted to an area from Medina two miles east along Highway 10.

The Sam and Gerald Ruppel farms on either side of 10 just outside of Medina suffered the most damage.

The top of a silo was blown off at the Sam Ruppel farm. A smoke house was tipped over and chopper wagons were tipped off their wheels.

Blown Through Barn

Gerald Ruppel lost the television antenna from his home. Trees slammed onto his kitchen roof. The machine shed was tipped and his car parked inside was scratched.

Trees were pulled up and the power line was pulled off the barn at the Merle Culbertson farm farther east. The house was not damaged.

Just west of Highway 45 a large tree was blown down across the front yard of the Death of Marine Ruled Accident

Beirut —P— A U.S. Marine spokesman said today a private first class fatally shot yesterday was killed by the accidental discharge of a companion's .45 caliber automatic.

Lt. Col. Leslie Gilson, marine spokesman, said four marines were on an unauthorized visit to a cluster of houses half a mile forward of the marine position at the time of the accident.

One of the marines was climbing over a wall when his .45 apparently snagged and the bullet went through the holster into the head of a man standing below. The dead man's name was withheld.

Wanted to be Honest

'Revenooers' Give Him Trouble

Carthage, Mo. —P— All Kenneth Welch wanted to do was find a commercial use for the hedge apple. But that was before he reckoned with the "revenooers."

No one had ever found any tree sometimes used in making archery bows and forming hedges. Welch, a 40-year-old stonecutter, thought he would try bottling the fruit.

Alcohol Problem His experiments led him to believe that from a ton of hedge apples he could get 67 pounds of vegetable oil, 24 pounds of an anti-oxidant compound for use as a food preservative, 300 pounds of high protein dried pulp good for cattle feed, and 20 gallons of ethyl alcohol.

Ah, alcohol. That's where the rub came. A good citizen, Welch figured that since alcohol was one of the products, he had better tell the federal alcohol tax people what he was about.

New Orleans —P— The body of Lt. Gen. Claire Chennault, leader of World War II's famed Flying Tigers, lies in state here today.

The 67-year-old 1-time Louisiana farm boy who gained worldwide fame through his love of flying died at Ochsner Foundation hospital yesterday of a massive arterial hemorrhage.

Chennault had been ill with a lung cancer for several months, but considered himself "grounded temporarily" and just last Friday doctors took him off the critical list.

Chinese Shocked

His Chinese-born wife, Anna Chan Chennault, was with Chennault when he died, just nine days after President Eisenhower signed an emergency bill giving the air force leader his third star.

After services here tonight, the body will be flown to Washington where it will lie in state until burial in Arlington Memorial cemetery on Wednesday.

Wisconsin's allotment was $46,585,545.

Yarborough Wins In Texas Primary

But Gov. Price Daniel's Backers Say Conservatives Have Control Of Delegation to State Convention

Dallas — (P) Liberal U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough decisively won renomination in the

Yarborough
Texas Democratic primary Saturday but Gov. Price Daniel's conservative forces appeared to have retained control of the party organization and the Texas delegation to the 1960 national convention.

Daniel, who won a thumping clear-cut majority for the gubernatorial nomination, had urged a strong turnout of conservatives at precinct conventions to retain control of the state organization, which has been sought by the liberal organization, the Democrats of Texas (DOT).

Daniel's backers claimed that conservatives have nailed down 2,588 of the 4,788 delegates to the state convention Sept. 9 in San Antonio. Control of the state organization this year takes on added importance because it will determine the Texas delegation to the 1960 national Democratic convention.

Blimp Forced To Delay Its Arctic Trip

Heavy Fog Makes It Necessary for Ship To Land at Lakehurst

Lakehurst, N. J. — A navy blimp bound for the Arctic landings here today after fog and a low ceiling caused it to detour from Massachusetts.

Collins

The aircraft touched down at the Lakehurst Naval air station to refuel and wait for the weather to clear. It then was to depart for Churchill, Manitoba, on an expedition to the Polar regions.

The navy blimp, ZPG-2, had left Weymouth in a heavy fog at 10:32 Sunday night. It was unable to climb to the 2,000 feet altitude assigned by the CAA, because of warm air over Long Island Sound.

Pilot of the "flying sausage" is Lt. Cmdr. Henry Collins of Conshohocken, Pa., a veteran of seven years blimp flying. Capt. Harold Van Gorder, in charge of the expedition for the naval air development unit, said Lakehurst was chosen because it had better visibility than Weymouth which is still shrouded in fog.

Weather Was Bad

The weather was bad as far as Poughkeepsie, N. Y., but was good from there north.

The blimp hung over Long Island Sound for several hours, hoping the fog would lift, when it didn't the decision to go to Lakehurst was made.

Takeoff of the 343-foot blimp was delayed for 90 minutes by heavy fog.

Its destination is the ice island, known as "T-3," this country's floating weather station in the Arctic ocean.

The flight is expected to take 12 days by way of Churchill, Manitoba, and Resolute on Cornwallis island, northwest territory.

On board are a crew of 14 and scientists of the international geophysical year.

New Prince of Wales at Top of Geography Class

Charles Brings Good Examination Results to Ailing Queen Elizabeth

BY GEOFFREY MILLER

London — (P) The new prince of Wales, 9-year-old Prince Charles, is top of his class in geography.

And his French is coming on well, too.

He cheered up his ailing mother, Queen Elizabeth II, by bringing home this bright report card to Buckingham palace over the weekend. The queen is recovering from a sharp attack of sinusitis.

Charles, who is at Cheam school 40 miles west of London, heard his mother's recorded television announcement Saturday that she was naming him prince of Wales. A few hours later the term examination results were posted on the school notice board.

At the head of the geography list it read: "Prince Charles."

Plane Crash in State Kills Two Persons

Illinois Man and Woman Die; Two Others Injured

Loretta — (P) — A plane, caught in foul weather, crashed on a farm Sunday, killing the pilot and one of the three other occupants.

Donald Slawko, 42, North Riverside, Ill., died in the crash as he apparently tried to make an emergency landing.

Mrs. Libby Ulmsid of Berwyn, Ill., died at St. Mary hospital in Ladysmith.

Also hospitalized were her husband, Arnold, 32, and John Kostal, 36, North Riverside. The hospital reported this morning that Ulmsid, who was alternately conscious and unconscious, was in fair condition.

Kostal, still unconscious, was described in "very poor" condition.

A Sawyer county deputy said baggage in the wrecked single-engine plane indicated the Illinois people were returning home from a fishing trip in Canada.

The crash occurred shortly after a thunderstorm which whipped this area of northwestern Wisconsin.

The sky was misty when the plane descended toward the Harold Skilling farm.

Mrs. Skilling said the plane seemed to be approaching for a landing "when suddenly it tried to regain altitude and smashed into the trees."

Space Fliers Survive Bounce of 2,000 Feet

Balloon Journey Man's Longest Flight Into the Stratosphere

Minneapolis — (P) — Space explorers Malcolm Ross and M. Lee Lewis survived a 2,000-foot bounce when they came back to earth yesterday from a record-breaking balloon flight. The 344 hour trip was man's longest flight into the stratosphere. The balloonists reached 82,000 feet, the flight's maximum altitude.

The happy-go-lucky fliers had their toughest decision after a release mechanism failed to detach the massive balloon from the gondola as they attempted to land.

The 17-story high gas bag banged the round aluminum capsule onto an east central North Dakota pasture, then carried Ross and Lewis aloft again when a firing device failed to release the gondola.

Slight Cut

Ross, a navy commander, suffered a slight cut about his left eye, but he and Lewis were unharmed. Ross said the balloon was one of the alternatives we discussed. Ross said, "But we're balloon men, not parachute men," he said.

They tried the descent again, and this time were able to release the balloon. The gondola was dragged about six feet over the hilly pasture, then tipped over on its side.

Lewis, a bushy haired former navy balloonist, asked the gathering crowd as he peered out of the gondola: "Where's that beer I asked for?"

Ross and Lewis climbed out of the oxygen-rich capsule and lit their first cigarettes in nearly a day and a half.

The men told of their view of a crackling electric storm. From a vantage point of 15,000 to 20,000 feet above the storm cloud, they saw "giant bolts of lightning filling the sky."

50 Experiments

"It was one of the most spectacular and awesome things I have ever seen," Lewis said.

Working constantly on some 50 experiments, Ross and Lewis enjoyed a comfort never before accorded to high altitude fliers, and never had to wear oxygen masks.

Their gondola was pressurized with the same air pressure carried Ross and Lewis aloft before they breathed before the balloon soared out of a deep open pit iron mine early Saturday morning. It was the first time an airship, propelled or free flying, was equipped with a "full atmosphere," the navy said. During much of the flight, they moved "out without their

Former Colorado Senator Millikin Dies of Pneumonia

Denver — (P) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow for former U.S. Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, once major policy maker for the Republican party.

Millikin, 67, died Saturday of pneumonia in his Denver apartment.

Appointed to the senate in 1941, he retired from public life July 25, 1956.

His death brought expressions of regret from President Eisenhower and both Democratic and Republican party leaders. President Eisenhower termed Millikin an "outstanding member of the United States Senate and a fine public servant."

Rep. Byrnes Urges Senate to Reject Diversion Increase

Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, today urged a senate committee to reject legislation authorizing an increase in the diversion of Lake Michigan water at Chicago.

In a statement presented to the senate public works committee the Wisconsin congressman stressed the precedent-setting nature of bills which would authorize Chicago to divert up to 5,000 cubic feet of Lake Michigan water per second into the Illinois waterway.

"We are not against the use of Great Lakes water for any legitimate purpose within the Great Lakes basin," Byrnes pointed out. "That water is being used now by countless cities and industries. My home town, Green Bay, has just completed a multi-million dollar water system which carries Lake Michigan water 30 miles overland for domestic and industrial use.

"The important consideration is that the water be returned, after use, to the Great Lakes basin, as is being done at Green Bay and every other area which uses it, with the exception of Chicago, where it is drained down the Mississippi and lost forever."

He neither approved nor disapproved of the U.S. troop movement to Lebanon.

Real camping is the program for Boy Scouts at Boulder Lake, Wilderness camp, Fred Sor-dahl, Valley council scout field executive says.

The camp is part of the Gardner Dam camps, which are two and a half miles east. Surrounded by the Nicolet National forest, the wilderness camp includes 200 acres of wooded area and 4-mile of lake frontage.

It is used primarily by Explorer scouts and older scouts, but almost every boy at Gardner Dam gets there, for an afternoon, a day or a campout.

Once a week scouts from the main area and other campsites camp there overnight for part of their First Class scout requirements. The camp also is used for troops for sailing and canoeing and as the destination point for the Second Class scout 5-mile hike requirement.

For advanced scouts, it is the site of their wilderness camp,

Six weeks of wilderness camping feature every summer and about 90 Valley council scouts have attended the sessions this summer.

are pretty fair country singers. That's here. In Hollywood, these same fellows are actors. Daniels sings not a note in United Artists' "Hot Wind from Acapulco." Bennett likewise warbles not in Warner Brothers' "Bridge at Ragemon." Frankie somewhat saves the day by singing briefly in the shower during one scene in "Some Came Running," an MGM feature. On the other hand, Marilyn Monroe is taking singing lessons again, for a role with an all-gal orchestra in "Some Like It Hot."

Pat Wayne, John's son, has a solid record hit. Remember when his pappy was "Singin' Sandy" in Monogram's movies? MGM-TV is bringing back the old Col. Gibson Opened First Doors 42 Years Ago

Company Holds Grand Opening of New Appleton Building This Week

A 42-year history of business in central Wisconsin is behind the Gibson company's grand opening today of its new building at W. Lawrence and S. Superior streets.

The automobile agency's doors were opened at Oshkosh in 1917 by Company President Alenor J. Gibson, then an 18-year-old Oshkosh youth. In its rookie years, it was primarily a tire and used car business — the first in Oshkosh.

Now, Gibson has 100 employees at branches in Appleton, Menasha and Fond du Lac as well as the Oshkosh location. Its operations have expanded to include Chevrolet, Buick and Cadillac new car sales, parts, accessories and repair work.

Prizes

The grand opening will be a Monday-through-Friday affair. Gifts, including a hi-fi set, outdoor grills, a ping-pong set, electric skillets and clock radios, will be given away each evening.

The opening marks the third new building Gibson has put up in Appleton. When the agency set up shop in 1919, it was in a structure built by Gibson at 211 W. College avenue.

Fire destroyed that building in 1929, and the company started construction again. This time it was a larger building—the one now standing. Company plans call for use of the W. College avenue quarters for used car reconditioning, paint and body works and new car storage.

Gibson has occupied the W. Lawrence and S. Superior site, once a ravine, for 30 years. The used car sales operation is being replaced by a lot at W. Wisconsin avenue and N. Story street.

Other Branches

Menasha and Fond du Lac joined the young Gibson chain shortly after the Appleton opening, completing the 4-location roster. Menasha's branch is at 132 Main street, with one used car lot there and a new 200-car lot at Ninth and Racine streets. In Fond du Lac, the firm maintains a building and lot at 75 N. Main street.

Headquarters is at another Main street address — 570 N. Main in Oshkosh. A lot for used car retailing is adjacent to the Main street building.

It's been just over 30 years since Gibson added new cars to its list of operations. Cadillac was the first, appearing in Gibson showrooms in 1927. Ten years later the agency began dealing in Chevrolets.

Today, Gibson sells Chevrolets, Buicks and Cadillacs in Menasha and Oshkosh and Chevrolets and Cadillacs in Fond du Lac and Appleton.

Plan to End Cash Payment of Taxes At Post Office

Fox Cities residents will not be able to pay current federal taxes by cash at Appleton post office if the proposed plan to eliminate the cashier's post in the Appleton office Aug. 1 is carried through.

George Bender, head of the collection division in the Milwaukee district office, said representatives of the Milwaukee and Appleton offices will meet in mid-August to discuss the action. Bender said other services in the office will not be affected.

Informed of the plan to eliminate cashier service in a letter from Sen. William Proxmire, Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell said he wanted to study the situation. Proxmire asked Mitchell how the move would affect Appleton residents.

The Milwaukee office of the internal revenue service said transactions handled by the cashier were too small to justify the position.

The cashier handled 2,790 cash items from May, 1957, through April, 1958, Proxmire said.

Suicide Attempt Ends in Puddle

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Police said Donald Wilt's dramatic suicide plan—driving off a bridge—ended up in a mud puddle.

What's more, the girl who spurned his marriage proposal was with him.

"You'd better get out of here," Wilt told Phyllis Jo Ann Aultman Sunday. "When I get to the second bridge I'm going to drive off."

And sure enough, officers said, when Wilt got to the second bridge he did drive off. The car plunged 20 feet down an embankment and into the San Gabriel river bed.

Driver and passenger were thrown into mud and water. The tide was out and the water was shallow. Wilt, 28, was treated for a broken arm and Miss Aultman, 19, for a scalp laceration.

Once a Ravine

Gibson Motors' Building Rests Atop 36 Pilings Buried 60 Feet in Earth

Gibson Motors' new building, under construction since June, 1957, at S. Superior and W. Lawrence streets, sits atop 36 pilings, each driven 60 feet in the ground.

The S. Superior site once was part of the winding ravine meandering from Jones park across W. College avenue and the Chicago and North Western tracks and through the present Arbutus park to W. Atlantic street.

That it was a deep ravine is evident from the remaining unfilled sections that comprise Jones and Arbutus parks.

A 4-foot-high concrete-reinforced frost wall, a foot in width, rides on top of the pilings, providing additional underground support for the 72 by 160-foot structure.

First in Valley

The building, for which William Tiede and Sons, route 2, Menasha, general contractor, estimated cost at $60,000, will be the first garage in the Fox River valley to provide air conditioning of showrooms and offices.

Other principal features, Alenor J. Gibson, Oshkosh, said, include huge windows on three sides of the showroom, three batteries of lights focusing on the showroom, wide, 8-foot-high mirrors in the showroom, mahogany paneling throughout showroom and offices, a 50-car customer parking lot, all the latest service shop equipment and the largest parts stockroom in this area.

The showroom has a corner entrance and one on the north side of the building, just off S. Superior, leading from the area of the parking lot where new cars will be displayed in the open. Inside are three offices, a meeting room and women's and men's lavatories.

Well Lit

The interior of the showroom is lighted by indirect lighting flush with the ceiling. Ten spotlights will be trained on new car models from just inside the windows. Outside, a row of 13 lights has been built into a permanent canopy. Passing cars on S. Superior will be reflected by the mirrors.

The parking lot is immediately behind the new car display area on the north side of the building. Access to it is from the east-west alley, just south of W. College.

One of the features of the service department, which will occupy about 8,000 square feet west of the showroom and offices, is a hoist capable of handling the largest truck. It 500 square feet in all, connects is one of two hoists in the service department between the showroom and offices and the garage area on the ground floor.

While the garage is 20 feet high, the showroom and office area has a second floor used strictly for parts storage. The garage contains two pedestrian entrances, one off W. Lawrence and the other off the northeast corner of the building.

Overall, the building is faced with brick and tan facing in the showroom area and concrete blocks in the garage area.

Gibson officials have said they will use their present building at 211 W. College for new car storage, body work and reconditioning of used cars. All service and sales operations will be moved to the new building.

Filling Ravine

Filling the ravine became a serious project in the 1920s when the North Western viaduct on E. Wisconsin avenue was excavated. Blue clay was hauled from the viaduct area to the ravine.

In a novel solution to get the fill into the ravine, the city cut a hole down the center of the then W. Lawrence street bridge and dumped the fill through the hole. Vehicles had to be careful to straddle the hole, but in the end the need for the bridge was gone.

During the fill operation, much of the clay fill spilled over into Casper Miller's lot. So much so that the city was able to connect S. Superior to W. Lawrence. Miller owned the site most of this century, selling to Gibson in 1937. Gibson still had to do some fill work.

Miller, older citizens will recall, had four or five billboards in the ravine before filling the ravine eliminated the bridge.

The bridge, incidentally is still there in the fill under W. Lawrence. Only the top part of the structure was removed.

Check Measures Used by Army Man On Green Trainees

Fl. Chaffee, Ark. (AP)—A veteran sergeant was under quarters arrest today pending an investigation of disciplinary measures he allegedly ordered for a group of green army trainees.

Thirty-one soldiers, including two who were hospitalized, suffered second and third degree burns on their hands while doing pushups Saturday on hot asphalt.

Capt. Arlie Metheny, Ft. Chaffee public information officer, said the record of Sgt. Roy C. Cobb, 29, Atlanta, Ga. showed that he had been in no serious trouble before. Cobb has four years of active duty with the army and three of inactive time.

Cobb ordered the pushups for the men because they moved after the sergeant had called them to attention, Metheny said.

Brig. Gen. William C. Bullock, post commander, interviewed each of the burned men and ordered an investigation.

Troops in Mideast Are Harsh Necessity

Critics Oppose U. S. Landings but Don't Offer Any Other Alternative

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — The courage and decency—and harsh necessity—of the Allied intervention in Lebanon and Jordan is being submerged in a sea of collateral arguments and valid complaints that the future is far from bright.

It is plain that legitimate questions—but secondary questions all the same—are causing many to lose sight of the central problem. This problem was and is simply the salvation of the Middle East from an ugly chaos that would lead in time to the enfeeblement, if not the destruction, of the free world.

The problem is not whether intervention will settle everything; nobody ever supposed it would. It is, regrettably, not even whether the uninvolved world likes what we have done. And it is not of controlling significance whether the chaos was being prepared on direct Moscow orders or by what is called by the curiously soft term of Nasser "nationalism."

Even those who have most ably opposed the landings in Lebanon and Jordan have not offered much alternative apart from one form or another of diplomatic negotiation. While talking things over is a useful and civilized device, it has its limitations. Even in the United Nations.

Heavy Pressure
The dead bodies in the little palace of Iraq might well have been followed by dead bodies elsewhere if President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan had not sent troops rather than notes.

But the heavy pressures on Macmillan by the British Labor party and the undoubtedly strong and high-minded public pressures on Mr. Eisenhower here are clearly weakening western will. Many—including this correspondent in a small way—criticized Mr. Eisenhower for not acting in the world drift.

It is being said of the troop landings, "Well, yes, perhaps they did have to do it—but what is the policy now?" There is a rhetorical pseudo-logic in this question. But there is a plain answer: "We don't yet know just what the policy will be. Let us have some chance to prepare one. For the moment, at any rate, our plan is very clear. This is not to allow the plotters—or the aspiring nationalists, if you prefer—to sink the western position. For the moment, we have kept our young friends from drowning. Don't require us just now to plan their future through college."

Then it is said our policy has

"the smell of oil." Of course, it has. Middle East oil is not merely desirable to our European allies; it is indispensable to their lives. And oil is really not inherently evil. Like coal, or sugar—or food—it is neither moral nor immoral. It is only necessary.

And, indeed, it is true certain large oil corporations may have their interests protected if we continue to protect the higher general interests of the west itself in the Middle East. It may even be that their profits will be sustained. If so, then it could be said the producers of every strategic necessity whatever — aircraft, tanks, ships, as well as oil—have always had their profit. Generally speaking, this has seemed the best way to have the strength required.

Finally, it is said we are looking under the bed for communists; that the Nasser Arabs really only want their own way of life. While it is not necessary to prove an imperialist communist connection to justify action against government by homicide, plenty of evidential proof of such a connection is, in fact, at hand.

Professional western and pro-western military men—not "politicians" and not "propagandists"—have files full of documented information of Soviet and Soviet-bloc arms, officers, technicians, trainers operating in Nasser's group of countries. If these are not placed to serve Russian interests, Moscow has been generous to a fault.

Taking Off the Veil

All the rebellion in Moslem countries is not against colonial rule. Part of it is against customs, some of them based upon religious restrictions, which have made Moslem women little more than slaves, producers of male children, and concubines. Some Moslems in Algeria, for instance, are looking at the advances made in Turkey to argue that changes can be made without the loss of religious belief.

Actually the Koran reads much like the Christian Bible in reference to the roles of men and women. "Husbands have priority over their wives. Men are superior to women because of qualities by which God has raised the former over the latter," says the Koran. St. Paul's Epistle reads "Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as it is fit in the Lord." But, by tradition, as well as pressure from extremist religious leaders, the Moslem woman must serve two masters all her life — her father and then her husband.

A Moslem father may make almost any deal he wants in regards to his daughter. Her husband is chosen for her and one out of ten Algerian girls are married before they are fifteen. Men may have four wives but usually cannot afford more than one. A man may obtain a divorce simply by tearing up the marriage contract or by telling the wife three times that he no longer cares for her.

But a woman must bring into court definite grievances and they must be backed with evidence considerably more serious than "cruel and inhuman treatment." In some Algerian villages, women never leave the huts except to till the fields. The men do the marketing. They don't count daughters as offspring at all. Dedicated Moslem women wear a veil and a sheet-like wrap-around when in the company of anyone except their husbands. The veil, supposed to be an article of fashion and mentioned nowhere in the Koran, varies from a delicate lace covering of the mouth and nose to a shroud of everything except one black eye.

Obviously religious taboos are nothing for colonial authorities to meddle with. The French Parliament in 1947 gave the right to vote to Moslem women but the Algerian Assembly, which has the authority to set up the machinery, never did anything about it. The main French help for the slavery of Algerian women comes through the Feminine Solidarity Movement, an organization of the wives of military men. This group conducts educational programs from medical advice about the care of children to delicately dropped hints about the few legal rights which women do have. Opposition to more freedom for women comes from the men who prefer things the way they are, the fanatical religious leaders who would see Islam sweep the world, and the very real fear that family stability would suffer.

But rebellion against the symbolic veil continues to grow in Algeria. The solidity of the Moslem religion in such westernized countries as Turkey is pointed out. Some young men have found out that they wanted something more than a concubine or a beast of burden in a wife. And more and more girls are being permitted to attend schools, even universities. It is not a change that will or should come overnight. But history has shown that equality of the sexes will continue to improve in all parts of the world.

Incorporation Standards

One of the weaknesses of Wisconsin law governing the incorporation of cities and villages that has become clearer as the urbanization tide continues is the lack of sufficiently explicit standards qualifying the creation of new municipal corporations.

Recent litigation has served to illuminate that weakness of statute law deriving from an earlier and simpler era in Wisconsin, without achieving much in the way of improvement.

It is encouraging therefore that a legislative interim committee studying urban growth problems has courageously chosen this as one of the major subjects for its study and reflection, in preparation for a report to the 1959 legislature.

A sub-committee of specialist advisors already has submitted to the legislative inquiry group a suggested revision of the incorporation laws which can be a starting point for public discussion.

The bill proposes the establishment of clear standards, involving specific proofs of urban character, as a condition for the commencement of incorporation proceeding. Both the circuit court and the state director of regional planning would examine the incorporation proposal. The circuit court would determine whether the minimum area, population and density requirements were met. The state director of regional planning would certify that the area petitioned for incorporation would meet other discretionary standards and advise the circuit court.

If the director found that the proposed area met the statutory standards, the circuit court judge would order a referendum vote of the residents of the district involved in the proceeding.

This as the committee has made plain is merely the starting point for its deliberations. Changes have already been submitted by various interested groups. Public hearings will be held when the bill is hammered into feasible form, before the committee will vote on it formally for presentation to the legislature.

These are difficult and volatile matters, which is obviously why modern legislatures have hesitated so painfully over them. But it is good that the Metzner committee has undertaken to study them. There is a hope here, dim and faint perhaps, but a hope nevertheless that our legislature is adapting its thinking to the changing population facts of the second half of the twentieth century.

How to Prevent a Murder

If Premier Khrushchev comes to the Security Council summit meeting at the United Nations headquarters in New York, a lot of people are going to have plenty to be worried about. The talks around the table may decide the trend of the near future, but a sudden shot could bring about an assassination.

First of all, there are hundreds of refugees from various Communist conquered nations living in New York. It is not difficult to imagine a young man or woman, having lost parents or children in the blood bath of Budapest, risking life to get the monster who engineered the murders. There are always crackpots who would figure that a world without Khrushchev was bound to be a better one, political repercussions or no. A lot of United Nations employees are refugees and screening isn't easy even if deliberations of the big boys are not public.

And what about some of the political hopefuls back in the Kremlin? All has not been serene in top Russian politics. An assassination, arranged in Moscow to occur in the United States, is right up the alley of Communist schemes. And any attempts to prove such an occurrence would be slandered as sour grapes.

There are a lot of angles to this proposed summit meeting. And some of them have nothing to do with desperate hopes that peace in the world is going to be the automatic outcome. In the United States gangsters get taken for rides and Khrushchev may be no exception.

Comparatively Speaking

August days, even this relatively cool summer, may get residents to feeling sticky and thirsty. But the highest temperature recorded on earth is a long way from a Wisconsin summer. And man can stand heat which would amaze the perspiring worker seeking shade and a lemonade.

A little town in northwestern Libya, Aziza, simmered at 136.4 on Sept. 13, 1922. And, in the United States, Death Valley was not far behind, hitting exactly 134 degrees in 1913. Temperatures in the sun have been recorded as high as 189 in Iraq, now sizzling for other reasons. But authorities point out that it actually isn't any hotter in the sun — it just seems that way because the sun's rays heat the clothes and skin and thermometer glass.

Human beings can actually stand a lot more heat, at least for short periods of time. Engineers at the University of California found that an average person can withstand 240 degrees Fahrenheit for about 20 minutes. Although this is a good jump above the boiling point of water, the mucous membranes of the nose, mouth and breathing passages cool the air about 100 degrees before it reaches the lungs.

Humidity or not, Wisconsin is a cool place to be.

Not Official Parking Ticket, but Printed Card Gets Point Across

Chattanooga, Tenn. —(AP)—

"Do I have to go to court on this?" a man asked police captain Kelso Rice as he handed him a printed card which read:

"Thanks for taking two parking spaces. I had to park in the next block, you selfish, idiotic moron."

In smaller type were the words, "You have violated section 368 D. A. R. N. I. T." Rice explained it was not an official summons — but added that the man shouldn't have taken two parking spaces.

Delight, Ark. —(AP)— Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Witt told their 7-year-old son John that a young cousin from New Jersey, whom he had never seen, was coming for a visit.

John thought it over and confided to his sister: "Well, I guess he and I will fight all the time. He's a Yankee and I'm an American."

Good Community Center Would Solve City's Recreation Needs

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This letter is prompted by recent newspaper print and comment given the local disc jockey, Bob Bandy.

Unfortunately, Bob Bandy's current stunt has received pro and con support in Appleton; that is, he has been accused of ignorance, publicity-seeking and getting, as well as credited with a sincere interest in the welfare of Appleton youth. It is unfortunate because personally few probably doubt his sincerity and integrity in the matter, but the people in the "know" — trained and qualified in recreation work — realize he is partially "barking up the wrong tree."

Is the problem solely a need for a youth center or for a community center? A youth center, sponsored by a semi-public agency serves a limited age group in a limited way, while a community center, municipally tax-supported, serves persons of all ages and with varied interests through the entire year. The traditional sports-recreational program or "bone and muscle activity" is augmented with arts and crafts, dancing, dramatics, music, hobby and card clubs, lyceums, etc. Thus it seems imperative — as the scientist warns us — to first clarify and limit the problem and then, and only then, observe and study it through.

My point of view rests on the philosophy that recreation serves all people and, although youth are a large part of a good recreation program, they are not the only group to be served. But to serve all people all year around, and to serve them in the right way, demands facilities, equipment and leadership. A community center in a growing city is a more economical investment in the final analysis than hodge-podge arrangements that too often are hit and miss affairs.

Such a center could be carefully planned and based upon what the public wants and what is needed. It could include an auditorium, cafeteria, gymnasium, swimming pool, special activity and club rooms. Thus it couldn't be an old building adapted for recreational use as was a common practice in the depression. It could be modern and well-equipped to provide the highly diversified and specialized type of activities that a heterogeneous and growing community like Appleton needs and wants. A diversified activity program rests on and is limited by the amount and kind of facilities available.

A proposed center could be the hub of city recreational activity and be supplemented by other municipal areas and facilities in schools and parks.

I favor such a community center and/or an expanded program of recreation for the whole community, public supported and endorsed. Also an indoor swimming pool available for community and school use 12 months a year instead of an outdoor one for only three months. (Swimming pools don't come cheap and neither do Cadillac. If I had a Cadillac it would be driven year around and not only during the summer when it doesn't rain.)

Oh, I almost forgot Bandy! Robert, I give you credit for sticking your neck out, or is it up. Either way people are buzzing and writing letters and maybe soon they may work and plan together. And, who knows, you may have your youth center in Appleton's new Community Building. Let's hope democratic thinking, planning and working together will replace individual, selfish interest ventures that sometimes occur. Appleton's people have always found common ground and mutual understanding in the past. Why not on this matter?

'Irritated' Gets Pat on the Back

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I would like to give "Irritated" a pat on the back. Perhaps, now, we can get something done about these "smudge" fires.

I, too, have tolerated rubbish burning to the breaking point. Every time I hang out my washing my neighbor has an unusual urge to burn something. I never see these fires lit up. That is always done when my back is turned. If people aren't intelligent enough to practice the Golden Rule, then it is high time that rubbish burning be confined by law to certain

Public Bath House New to Appleton

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Aug. 2, 1879.

Mr. Charles H. Briggs, a very worthy young man, has erected a very fine bathing house at the east end of Messrs. Briggs and Bevedridge's sash and blind factory, therefore being of very easy access to those who desire to avail themselves of the comfortable and complete facilities provided.

The little building is nest-like made of planed and matching lumber, having three separate apartments, divided by a close partition in the center. The back part forms the receptacle for the water, which is brought to the rooms by a pipe attached to the main trunk, connecting with the bulk head above.

By this means, either a dash, shower or plunge bath may be taken in perfect seclusion. The bath-rooms are well provided with towels, glass, brush, comb and clothes racks. In fact, this establishment is fully up to demands of the day in its completeness.

Heavy Trucks Continue To Exceed Speed Limit

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—A few moments ago, as this correspondent was driving to his office in Madison from a suburban home, he thought to pass a heavily laden petroleum truck on the heavily traveled belt-line highway that skirts the capital city.

The accelerator went to the floor board, and the car came perilously close to the legal maximum speed for passenger vehicles, as the huge carrier was overtaken and passed with some difficulty.

It was another aggravating reminder that in a state where there has been an enormous build-up of road law enforcement machinery in the last few years and at a heavy cost in additional taxation, there is a widespread indifference to the fact that state law limits heavy vehicles on the highway to a speed of 45 miles an hour.

The complaints are not isolated. Other motorists have had the same experience. On any of the main highways outside Madison a patrolman who was not asleep could apprehend a couple of dozen of truck drivers in violation of the law each day. The patrolmen are there. But they are paying no attention. Somebody forgot to tell them, evidently.

THE DIFFICULTY

The obvious difficulty is that the patrolmen have been drilled in the principles of highway safety, and the legislature when it attempted to limit the speed days of the week. Such a law would make everyone happy, including those who would like to spend an occasional evening outdoors without being buried in the fumes of a long-burning, smoldering fire.

Now is a good time to do something about it.

sented the program, "Echoes of the Convention," at the meeting of the Baptist Young People's Union.

The history of the Women's Relief corps was included in the sermon Sunday at First English Lutheran church when the Rev. F. C. Reuter honored the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. Members of the auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic were guests of the church.

10 YEARS AGO

A solemn high mass Sunday at St. John church, Little Chute, honored the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Sprangers. An evening testimonial program also was held.

of trucks was concerned about the conservation of road surfaces.

It requires no special gift of imagination to recognize that it is not the light passenger car that is breaking up the highways throughout Wisconsin. The trucker is the man who contributes most to road wear. The 45 mile an hour limit was explicitly designed as a road-saving measure, quite aside from any public safety considerations.

But it is perfectly evident that the enforcement authorities are not concerned about the legislature's motivation or the laws governing the commercial highway user. The private motorist will get a ticket, or a warning at the least, if he betrays a defective headlight. The trucker can roar past a patrol post at a speed 15 to 20 miles in excess of that specifically permitted, with impunity.

Truck trade associations and individual employers of drivers have explained that their tariffs and their time tables are developed on the assumption that the drivers are staying within the speed laws. The violation is inspired, they insist, by the driver who wants to save some time that he can later enjoy at the coffee stop or elsewhere.

The state highway department is now building roads at a cost of up to one million dollars a mile, according to the highest standards ever applied.

The concrete surfaces are being built up to 10 inches thick, against the seven inches standard only a few years ago, and the base course is 18 inches and more, all at enormous additional cost to the public.

Any design engineer will cheerfully testify that without the trucks, such tremendous additional spending would not be needed to provide a serviceable road. There have been dozens of tests, moreover, that certify the damaging effect of heavy loads traveling at high speeds on the surface of a road.

Somebody ought to send some of those research reports and perhaps the committee reports of the legislature on highway regulations, to the police academy that is conducted each year for the training of the patrolmen now traveling the open road of Wisconsin more intensively than ever before.

Something has been lacking in their education.

Potomac Fever— by Fletcher Knebel

You don't have to worry about the summit. If the diplomats don't get there, prices will.

Ghana's Prime Minister comes all the way from Africa to visit Washington. Officials are flattered. Usually foreigners just pick up the phone to tell us off.

One Democrat is waging a scientific campaign. He's accusing the Republicans of a lack of technical know-how—in not spreading the mess around among more people.

You might say that Sec. of State Dulles has ventured to the brink of the summit.

Ike is willing to face Khrushchev in front of TV cameras around the U.N. security council table—provided he can sit in the isolation booth while Khrushchev speaks.

The Dominican Republic's Gen. Trujillo charges unfair treatment by the U. S. He gave away the costliest gifts—but Goldfine got all the headlines.

Ike was a big victory in congress on his foreign trade bill. Just so he doesn't cut the tariff on foreign-made corruption. We've got a surplus at home.

LESS IF THEY'RE FROM PENNEY'S

A sheet that lives with a family finds itself in close contact with all sorts of things: children and with the children, sand and crayons and blocks and cap guns and pets. It's a rugged test you put a sheet to. We know our sheet can take it because we laboratory test them even more than you test them.

For instance, you stretch a sheet to drum-tightness when you make your beds. We put our sheets into the grip of a mechanical jaw with a "pull" of 55 pounds, and all our sheets stay whole in spite of it.

And it's the same with every sheet, towel, blanket and piece of bedding we sell. We laboratory test them in a realistic way... subject them to the same sort of "punishment" family living does. They all stand up and take it... just beautifully.

It pays to buy Penney's first quality... it is actually priced less than most. That's why we can honestly say: No matter how you use your sheets... your towels, your blankets... They'll Serve You Better and Cost You Less If They're From Penney's.

Get more? Because you always get first quality at Penney's. Never seconds, never manufacturer's rejects... nothing but sure laboratory-tested sheets, towels, blankets, draperies... everything! Save More? Penney's prices are much lower than most to begin with. And since these prices apply to only first quality at Penney's you get big, real savings!

THE CRISIS THAT WASN'T

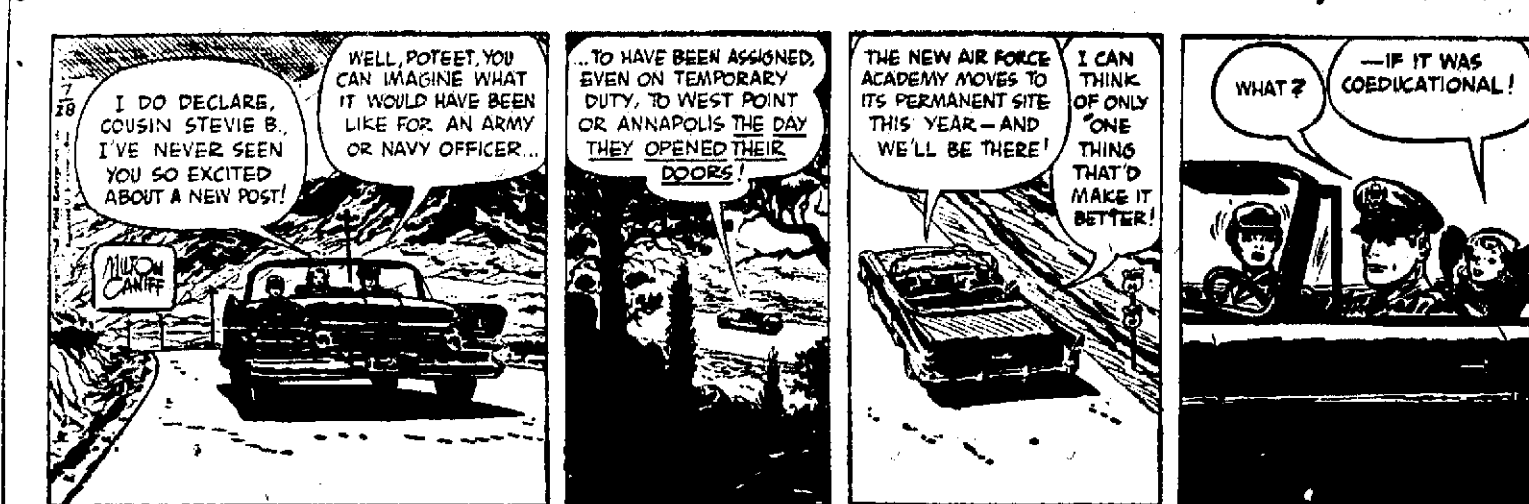

Today, there are many quick victories over disease. Each might be described as a crisis that didn't quite happen — thanks to today's superior medicinal agents.

Modern medicines prescribed by your physician score amazing triumphs over diseases which, only a decade ago, were almost certain to become dangerously serious.

Present-day pharmaceuticals, such as the antibiotics, require complex equipment, intricate controls and highly skilled technicians for production. Although somewhat higher in cost, they actually are an investment in economy. They effect an earlier cure and cut down expensive sick-bed time.

We are stocked and equipped to fill your doctor's prescriptions promptly at prices that are fair.

Erwin Kelbert, route 2, Menasha, told police he was operating the boat towing Werner Kuehn, Neenah, her brother-in-law, on the water skis. He was watching Kuehn and did not see her in the water, he said.

He felt a bump and the motor jump but thought he had hit a rock, he told Neenah police. Mrs. Kuehn was badly cut on the shoulder and head by the 40-horsepower motor. She was taken in the Neenah ambulance to Theda Clark hospital and was pronounced dead on arrival.

Stanley Drews, 621 Maple street, was standing on shore with the victim's husband when he saw her body floating in the water. He swam to her and pulled her to shore. Also in the boat was another brother of the victim, Horst Kelbert, Neenah.

Did Not Hear Him
Erwin Kelbert said he had completed towing Drews and was starting out with Werner Kuehn when the accident happened. Werner Kuehn said he saw his sister-in-law and called to Erwin who apparently did not hear him. He thought his sister-in-law was trying to get out of the way of the boat when it ran over her, he told police.

The 14-foot boat and motor are owned jointly by the Kuehns and Kelberts.

Mrs. Clifford Boelter, 29, and two sons, Norman, 5, and Vernon, 4, received injuries when they were thrown into the east ditch. Her husband and another son, Alvin, 15 months, also were injured.
Dougherty and his passenger, Lucille Frank, 60, Chicago, also were taken to Mercy hospital by the Miller ambulance.

"He was a great friend of the Chinese people and the cause we stand for. I feel privileged to be able to call him a true friend."

"I mourn with my husband and all patriotic Chinese at his passing. In every way we think of him as one of us."

Hollington Tong, nationalist Chinese ambassador, to the U.S., said:

"Chennault remains a symbol of freedom."

The Columnist Joseph Alsop recently called Chennault "the leading American air ace of the second world war."

Winston Churchill once said: "I'm glad he's on our side."

The Japanese had enough respect for him to name Chennault their No. 1 "war criminal," one ahead of President Roosevelt.

A deaf ear and his outspoken support of Gen. Billy Mitchell forced the then Capt. Chennault to retire from the army air corps in April, 1937.

The next month Chennault was in China at the request of Mme. Chiang to inspect the Chinese air force. He stayed on to instruct pilots and supervise the makeshift maintenance of the outmoded Chinese aircraft.

In 1941, Chennault formed the American volunteer group, later known as the Flying Tigers.

With sharks' teeth painted on the snouts of their outmoded P-40 fighters, this outnumbered band of volunteers officially downed 286 Japanese planes in six months. They were generally credited with 300 more kills.

Flying Tiger losses: Eight pilots killed in action.

After the U.S. entered the war, Chennault took command of the 14th air force in China as a brigadier general. He was promoted to major general in 1943.

After the war, Chennault remained in China, founding Civil Air Transport, a privately-

State Legion Praises Ike's Lebanon Move

Urges U. S. to Keep Enemy Property Taken
During World War II

La Crosse —P— The Wisconsin American Legion convention Sunday unanimously adopted a resolution praising President Eisenhower for his action in the Lebanon crisis.

The closing session of the convention also adopted a resolution urging the federal government to retain enemy property seized in this country during World War II as war reparations.

The convention closed Sunday afternoon with a 3-hour parade. Police estimated there were 40,000 spectators.

Convention delegates amended the Wisconsin department convention to specify the secret ballot as regular procedure for the convention voting.

In past years, the rules committee has called for the use of a secret ballot, and there has been no objection. However, its use never was prescribed in the constitution.

The delegates endorsed the Rev. J. P. Paquette, rector of St. Joseph Roman Catholic cathedral at La Crosse, for the post of national legion chaplain.

owned airlines now operating out of Taipei.

Chennault remained with the nationalist Chinese during their retreat on the mainland and mass exodus to Formosa. He returned to the U.S. for the last time in February to undergo extensive treatment for lung cancer.

Chennault, however, would make the reunion of the Flying Tigers and 14th air force Aug. 7-9 in San Francisco.

play much if any part in the organization in the future. However, a growing tendency within the governments of the United States and the Baghdad group to recognize the Iraqi regime was reported.

Some of the tasks facing the current council meeting are: A reappraisal of future operations in the light of Iraq's expected withdrawal. This involves changing the name, the headquarters, and the military and economic program.

An assessment of the significance of rebel-ruled Iraq's possession of most of the allies' and political secrets. The Iraqi rebels seized most of the important military and political documents formulated for the defense of the region when they took over the Baghdad pact headquarters building in the Iraqi capital.

An examination of the prospects of winning the cooperation of the Russians throughout the Middle East.

Work for Unity
Formulation of common attitude—probably involving recognition toward the new government in Baghdad. The United States, Britain and Pakistan reportedly are ready to acknowledge the new Iraqi leaders as the effective (de facto) rulers of the country, but Turkey is less inclined to do so.

Discussion of the political feasibility of coming to some sort of terms with President Nasser of the United Arab Republic. The United States and Britain have been thinking of trying for the return of normal relations with the Arab nationalist leader in order to reduce the increasing dependence on Russia.

Bid To Russia
The delegates to the London meeting gathered in the shadow of the proposed Middle East summit meeting on which the west and Moscow now are negotiating. U. S. informants reported their government was ready to consider an agreement with the Soviet Union for a Middle East arms embargo if it did not extend to Iran, Turkey and Pakistan, the Baghdad pact nations. This in effect would freeze the present arms situation between Israel and the Arab Countries. It seemed unlikely the Russians would agree.

U. S. sources said that Dulles is strongly in favor of continuing the Baghdad pact, despite the likelihood that the new Iraqi government will pull out of it. But Dulles reportedly still has no plans for the United States to take full membership in the alliance Dulles himself conceived.

The United States so far has only joined the pact's economic, military and counter-subversive committees.

Calls Democratic Party Machine 'Of Confusion'

Milwaukee —P— Wisconsin's Democratic party Sunday was called a "political machine of conflict, compromise and confusion" by Gov. Vernon Thomson.

The Republican governor said, "ever since the Democratic convention in La Crosse last month there have been many different versions of what the Democratic platform means as there are Democrat candidates for state offices."

"This is not surprising because the Democrat platform was adopted after three-fourths of the delegates had left for home."

Thomson claimed that what he called "the Madison ring" and out-of-state political "professionals" have seized control of the Wisconsin Democratic party.

Roland Steinle, Republican candidate for the U. S. senate, claimed Saturday night that Charles Schultz, president of the former Wisconsin CIO "dominates the Democratic party in Wisconsin."

of the Iraqi government was based on a realization that the regime was in power to stay and nothing apparently can be done about it. Pakistan was considering going ahead with recognition of its own, and the United States was reported leaning toward recognition as a gesture of friendship toward Arab nationalism.

U. S. thinking on the subject was reported to be along this line: the brutality of the first day of the revolution was followed by the restoration of law and order. The present Iraqi rulers profess a desire to keep their international agreements and this cannot be ignored.

Boy Urges Faith In Swim to Shore

Topsail Beach, N.C. —P—

"Have faith in God, Daddy. Have faith in God."

Eleven-year-old Marrow Smith repeated the words again and again as he and his father struggled through heaving waves to the shore.

"I was frightened to start with, but when he kept saying 'Have faith in God,' I wasn't afraid any more," said 58-year-old C. K. Smith of Kinston.

Smith said he and his young son were fishing in the ocean outside new Topsail inlet Saturday when a big wave swamped the boat and threw the pair into the sea, 400 yards from shore.

They managed to reach life preservers in the boat and were able to swim to safety.

Two Lopsided Games Played At Kimberly

Kimberly — Two lopsided games and a forfeit were registered in Village Softball league action last week.

Rich's Beer Depot defeated DX Service 13 to 4 and Shy's Bar tipped Dud's Inn 16 to 1. Van Elzens won on a forfeit over Bill's Bar.

Richs jumped off to a five run lead in the first inning and was never headed as they scored in every frame but two. DX had single tallies in the first and third and added a pair in the seventh.

Dick Ristau was the top hitter for the winners with two for four including a homer. Jim Harke had two for two to lead the DX squad.

Al Kneepkens twirled a 4-hitter to lead Shys to the win over Duds. His mates backed him up with a solid 19 hit attack. All 16 runs scored in the first five innings.

Jack Grafmeier set the pace for the winners with four for four, Gene Peerenboom rocked three for four including a homer and Rog Harke also banged a four bagger.

Regents Fail to Agree On Site for Gymnasium

Opposition Develops to Location of $5 Million Unit Suggested by Planners

Eagle River — Location for the University of Wisconsin's proposed $5,000,000 gymnasium was left undecided by university regents, who met here Saturday, when opposition developed to a site suggested by the Campus Planning commission.

The commission had recommended the structure should be built on the northwest corner of Elm drive and Observatory drive extended, in the heart of the dormitory area near the College of Agriculture campus. The regents authorized the president of the board to appoint a special regent committee to study the location.

Although the University has received no state funds to plan or to build the structure, the department of intercollegiate athletics has offered to borrow $2,000,000, to be repaid from athletic receipts, to get the first unit of the building under way, as soon as its location can be determined.

The $3,000,000 needed for completing the structure has been included in the priority list for the University's 1959-61 legislative building request. It was anticipated that the first unit would contain swimming pools, a crew tank, and other facilities for intercollegiate athletics, and the second unit would provide space for the university's physical education courses.

Just south of the location which had been suggested for the gymnasium the regents plan to build a new agricultural engineering shop and Saturday they authorized their executive committee to award contracts for the first unit of that structure, and for a new meats laboratory, and a feed and farm service wing to the bulk feed storage building, all in the same general area.

In other actions on university buildings Saturday, the regents:

1. Confirmed actions by their executive committee approving preliminary plans and specifications for the law library addition, the Enzyme institute addition, and approving final plans for the third set of married student apartments at Eagle Heights, this set to house 300 student families.

Award Contracts

2. Approved award of contracts to C. and C. Construction company, Ft. Wayne, Ind., for $36,400 in general construction, to J. E. Casserly, Madison, for $1,125 in heating work, and to Capital Electric company, Madison, for $1,468 in electrical work, all part of an alteration project at Barnard Hall.

3. Approved a $100,112 contract with H. F. Kessenich company, Madison, for food service equipment for Chadbourne Hall.

4. Approved a $18,899 contract with Mike Oliver company, Madison, for sewer and water utilities for the new residence halls west of Elm Drive.

5. Empowered the executive committee to award contracts for the third set of married student apartments at Eagle Heights, for steam service, electrical and telephone service for the Residence Halls west of Elm drive, and for additions to the Halsor farm barn and poultry breeding house at Arlington farms.

13-Year-Old Held for Theft Refuses to Talk to Anyone

A 13-year-old Nichols boy, held in the county jail after he was taken into custody by New London police, faces Sheriff Donald Heinritz and his investigators today.

The boy has refused to talk to anyone. He is held in connection with a $30 theft from his employer, a town of Cicero farmer. The boy ran away from home July 16 and police were sent on his trail after the theft report last week. Carl Trams, route 1, Black Creek, said the boy worked for him several days, then fled when caught stealing the money.

The boy stopped for a glass of water near Lecman Wednesday, giving his name as John Mansfield. It was not his name, although there is a Mansfield in Nichols, police said.

Although the boy won't talk, Sheriff's Lt. Jack Zuelzke said evidence indicates the youth so far this year has stolen a billfold from a car in Nichols, broken

Attended on Scholarship

Appleton Housewife Relates Her 2-Week Session at Audubon Camp

A 2-week session of delving into the mysteries, beauties and intricacies of northern Wisconsin's flora and fauna was a summer project of Mrs. J. L. Tibbetts, 1904 N. Appleton street.

She attended the National Audubon society's camp at Hunt Hill, near Saron, on a scholarship awarded her by the Appleton Audubon society.

The camp, devoted to the ideals of creating an awareness of natural surroundings and teaching people to realize the value and need of natural resources, has been in operation for three years and has drawn campers from throughout the United States, Alaska and Canada.

During the session attended by Mrs. Tibbetts, she relates, campers represented diverse geographical areas, including California, Minnesota, New Jersey, Kentucky, Arkansas, Michigan, Illinois, Oklahoma and Wisconsin.

Diverse Occupations
A diversity of occupations also were claimed by campers, Mrs. Tibbetts goes on, although teaching appeared to be predominant. Eleven were present — a professor of journalism, three high school biology teachers and the remainder elementary school teachers.

Also numbered were a physicist, a wholesale grocer, housewives and a "mystery man" who finally revealed himself as a retired rear admiral from Santa Barbara, Calif., Mrs. Tibbetts explained.

The oldest camper, the Appleton housewife and nature lover, continues, was an 83-year-old woman from California. "She attended a number of sessions at the California Audubon camp, does mountain hiking in the Sierras and decided to come to the Wisconsin because she was interested in learning about a different flora and fauna," Mrs. Tibbetts states.

"When some of us were about to complain about the strenuous program, one look at Carrie would silence us. One of the evening programs was a square dance. When some of us faltered in our square, Carrie directed us until everyone caught on."

Cubs Hold Lead In Locks League

Combined Locks — Despite dropping their second game of the season the Cubs continue to set the pace in the playground Pee-wee softball league.

The Giants defeated the Cubs behind the pitching of Mike Opsteen. Johnny Seigel was the losing hurler for the Cubs.

In the second league game the Braves topped the Indians. Ken Thiele received credit for the win and Jack Couillard was the loser.

League standings show the Cubs in front with a 6-2 mark and the other three teams are all tied for runnerup honors with 3-5 records.

Tuesday afternoon the Braves will tangle with the Giants in the opening game and the Indians and Cubs will meet in the second tilt.

and, when we staggered with dizziness, Carrie gracefully do-si-doed and bowed to her partner without any sign of strain."

Anyone Can Enter
Clearing up a misconception about Audubon camps, Mrs. Tibbetts related they are open to anyone 18 years or older and are not set up primarily for teachers. She noted many teachers do attend to earn credits in in-service training, but anyone with a love of nature may enroll.

This summer's teaching staff, she said, consisted of seven men — all-around naturalists, besides specialists in their own fields. Several of the men have made 2-or 3-year studies of some particular bird. The camp director was Dr. Nicholas Cuthbert, professor of biology at Central Michigan college, Mount Pleasant, Mich.

There also was an instructor for nature activities, one for soils, water and geology, one for plants and one for insects and pond life.

Camp Program

"The camp program," she explained, "is planned to give the most possible in the 2-week period in information, experiences and inspiration. Each day has its hikes, bus or station wagon trips and boat or canoe trips."

"The campers not only observe but learn by doing, such things as forecasting weather, mounting and labeling insects, preparing skins, collecting and identifying various nature items and taking water temperatures at various depths."

They also seine streams and ponds for living things, make equipment such as mounting boards and insect cages, capture and band turtles, birds and fish and participate in an almost endless variety of nature activities and experiments.

"Each camper is limited only by time and his own enthusiasm, capability and endurance," she concludes.

Oneida Street Bridge to Open Tuesday

The S. Oneida street swing bridge, closed to auto traffic by a breakdown Sunday morning, probably will open sometime Tuesday, Edwin J. Duszynski, director of public works, said this morning.

The main drive shaft sheared off, breaking a bearing, when the bridge was opened for a boat. Duszynski said. The shaft and the bearing will be remade by an Appleton machine company.

Duszynski said he could have the bridge pulled closed with a truck, but then would be unable to open it for navigation. The river is a federal waterway and must be kept open for river traffic.

Motorists and pedestrians will have to use the Memorial Drive or S. Lawe street bridges until the span is repaired.

Fire Cause Unknown

Cause of the fire Tuesday at Fox River Valley Knitting company, 808 W. Wisconsin avenue, has not been determined. Fire Chief Paul Neumann said he expects to confer with Earl Schwabe, state fire marshal, soon.

State Safety Program Praised for Progress

Behind Others in North Central Region
But National Council Says Wisconsin Still

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The Wisconsin highway safety program, a major enterprise in recent years, has been given the restrained praise of the National Safety Council.

George Harris of the national organization passed out "grades" earned by Wisconsin for its 1957 highway safety work at a special session of the Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety.

They showed the state has made some significant gains, as measured by fatal highway accidents, but that the Wisconsin performance remains considerably below that for the country as a whole and while better than that of some states in the north central section, is below others in this region.

Steady Improvement
But in the percentage ratings to performance in various categories that relate to safety on the roads, the state showed steady improvement, according to the impartial national bureau appraisers.

In record keeping, in traffic and highway engineering, police traffic supervision, school traffic safety education, public traffic safety education and organization for traffic safety improvement, the state was credited with progress over other years.

One measure of a state's performance is its administration of periodic motor vehicle inspection rules, but this state has thus far declined to enact a compulsory vehicle inspection law and as a result lost a score on that point.

The national bureau said there was no progress during the year in the administration of driver licensing, although the score on that measure, 70 points out of a possible 100, was regarded as favorable.

Expect Better in '58
State officials at the conference said they are sure that the state's relative grades will be improved in the report next year, based on 1958 performance, and especially in police accident investigations and record keeping, highway engineering including traffic sign posting, and safety education work, especially in the schools.

The Council noted that its general performance rating is based upon fatal accident rates. Non-fatal injuries are not counted, because an equitable method has not yet been developed for evaluating comparative non-fatal injury experience, it was said.

Wisconsin last year recorded a highway accident death rate of 6.7 per million miles of vehicle travel within the state. The average for the three preceding years was seven. The national average last year was 5.9. The lowest rate in the north central group of states was 4.7 and the group average was six.

Measured in financial terms, Wisconsin highway accidents last year represented the staggering loss of $116,000,000.

State Nursing Board Proposes New Standards

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The state board of nursing is trying to elevate the professional standing and dignity of the trained nurse.

The board has disclosed it is concerned with other aspects of professional competence than technical proficiency and knowledge of principles of health and medicine.

In attempting to define what a "professional nurse is, under the new standards that probably will be enacted, the board is offering these criteria:

The use of logical thinking in making decisions.

The ability to communicate thoughts with sufficient clarity and logic to be effective.

An appreciation of aesthetic values.

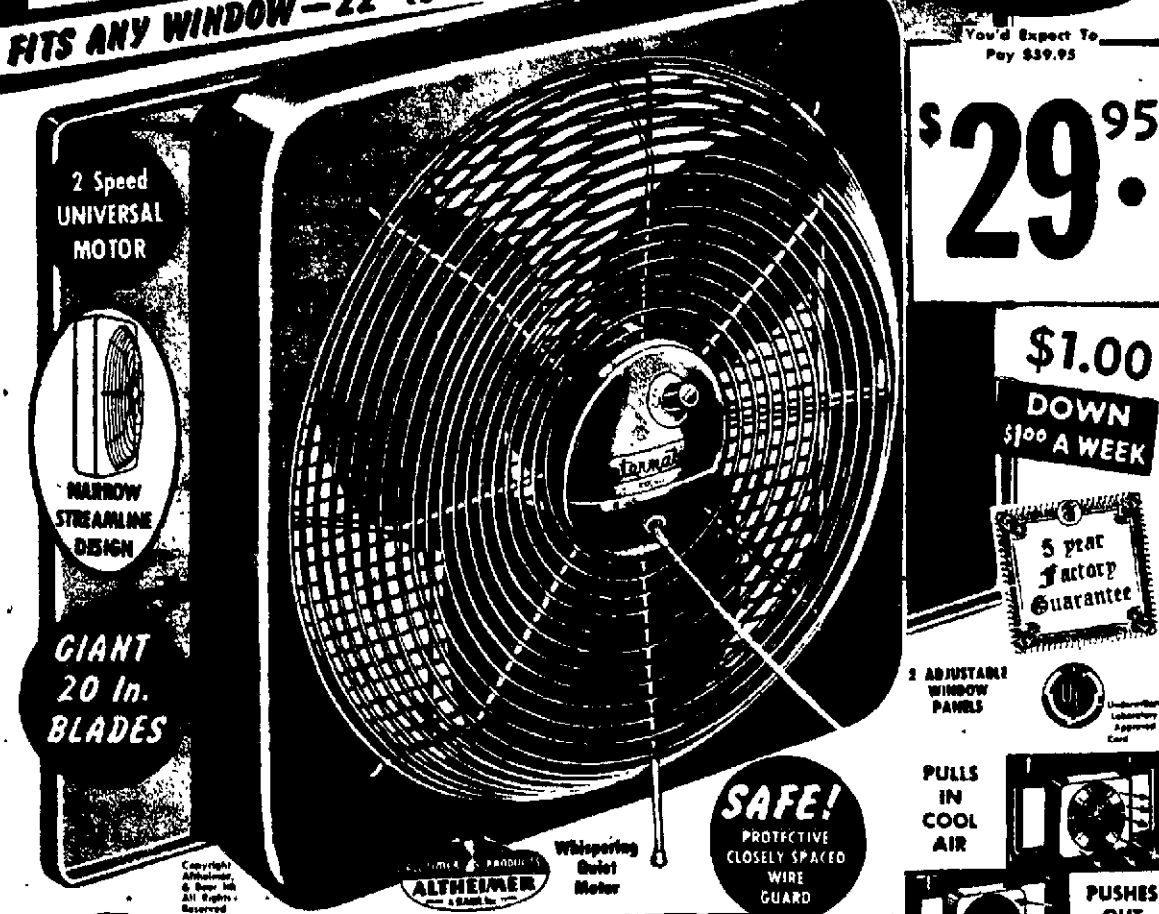

Growth in ability to identify moral issues in personal and

Land West of Appleton for which annexation reportedly is sought is outlined in the shaded area. It includes about 2,120 acres, an area roughly 36 per cent the size of the city's present 5,892 acres. The 2,120 acres compare with 1,732 acres which the city has added since it was incorporated in 1857. Annexations began in 1942, but didn't become a problem until recent years, when the bulk of additional land came into the city. Proponents of annexing the large western chunk point to indicated future savings in a Mud Creek sewage treatment plant at the point where the creek enters Little Lake Butte des Morts near Stroebe's Island. A Mud Creek plant, they say, would negate need for a $128,000 sewage lift station, outlined at top as serving temporarily about 1,200 acres. These Days

New Yorkers Have No Obligation for Civility to Khrushchev in U.N. Visit

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

The first time the Eisenhower administration took a strong step, sent troops to Lebanon, established an area base in Turkey, while our ally, Great Britain, went into Jordan, Nikita Khrushchev agreed to come to New York to join in the interminable pow-wow at the United Nations.

Sokolsky

First he wanted to go to Geneva where it is cool and refreshing during the summer months and bring Nehru along with him. He wanted President Eisenhower to be in Geneva last Tuesday; Eisenhower did not go to Geneva as instructed. So Khrushchev announced his willingness to come to New York along with Nehru and a bunch of Arabs. When and if they come to the United Nations, Dag Hammarskjöld unquestionably will put out a red carpet for Khrushchev and the Hungarians will march on a picket line.

That picket line will be some problem for the local police, but men may engage in lawful picketing, as long as they do not throw ink bottles the way they do in Moscow. In fact, they may not throw anything except words. It might be suggested to the Hungarians that they arrange a float, upon which they place the four most publicized Hungarian refugees, Mamma Gabor and her three daughters, Zsa Zsa, Eva and Magda. They will then be sure of an enormous crowd, for who would not prefer to see the Gabor family? The Gabor family might wear Hungarian gypsy costumes and sing to the music of a zembala.

No Need to Be Civil
Khrushchev is to visit us as a member of a United Nations delegation. But, nobody except Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is under any obligation to be civil about it. Since this is an important election year in New York state, it is understandable that neither Gov. Harriman nor Mayor Wagner can afford to make a fuss over Nikita. It would be worth a million votes to the Republican if the Democrats would entertain Nikita, and vice versa. Of course, a ticker tape parade would be too dangerous; someone might throw the ticker instead of the tape. We are an hospitable people and will do nothing to embarrass our own government, but Khrushchev ought to know that New York is the city where the ghosts of those whom he murdered in the Ukraine, Hungary and Poland, walk in the memory of living men and women.

Used to Windbags
This visit is an excellent reason why it would have been preferable to have the United Nations somewhere else. New York is too cosmopolitan a city for it. I have often wondered at the fine law-abiding qualities of the residents of New York under the provocation of having all kinds of murderers, assassins, enemies of the United States and similar evil characters standing up in the United Nations, denouncing this country, lying about the American people, betraying us and demanding tribute from us—and no more attention is paid to what they do and say than to last year's hockey game at Madison Square garden.

New Yorkers have grown accustomed to windbags, since from earliest times they have been habituated to speechifying. After all, this is the city where Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton quarrelled until Burr shot Hamilton. This town knew Lucky Luciano and "Dutch" Schultz and similar characters and got used to them, just as this town gets used to every novelty, including seeing the automobiles of so-called diplomats parked in front of fire hydrants whereas citizens are fined for doing the same.

Wiley Friend Frees Buddy With Pen Skill
Casper, Wyo. — Alfred A. Steele appealed to justice of Peace Alice K. Burridge to free his friend from an insufficient fund check charge.

She agreed if Steele would make good on $60 in bad checks. Steele promptly pulled a checkbook from his pocket and began writing. But Mrs. Burridge refused to accept the check without proof Steele had an account in the bank.

Sheriff Louis Cooper said Steele went outside the courtroom, forged a note from a bank official saying he had an account in the bank, then wrote a check to free his pal. The check bounced.

Farm Bureau Introduces Pension Plan

Madison — A retirement plan for dairymen, providing $20 to $500 monthly income, was announced today by Curtis Hatch, president of Wisconsin Farm Bureau.

Farmers joining the plan authorize their dairy plant to make milk checks deductions every month. This builds up a fund which begins paying retirement income at 65 or earlier, Hatch said.

Payments continue for the remainder of the person's life. The plan is underwritten by Rural Security Life Insurance company, a Farm Bureau affiliate. It is available to the more than 100,000 Wisconsin farmers who send milk to over 1,300 dairy plants and is not limited to Farm Bureau members.

William Kasakaitas, Wisconsin Farm Bureau executive secretary, told a Farm Bureau meeting today at Watertown that 12 cheese factories already have given approval to the plan although it does not start officially until September 1.

The plan goes into effect when 10 patrons of a plant subscribe. The decision to participate is made by each patron individually.

Thomson May Ask Tougher Penalties for Traffic Crimes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — More stringent laws may be in the offing to fortify the battle against highway death and injury. Gov. Vernon W. Thomson has hinted.

The governor, who has demanded increasingly vigorous highway safety measures since he took over as state executive, said in a state department of health bulletin that he is considering legislation to make penalties for major traffic law violations more effective.

He said he also wants more

"I'll say he's a life saver! He asked Taffy to the dance tonight!"

Tasters Pick Best Wines In Hungary

Budapest — Twenty-five expert wine tasters have chosen Hungary's best wines in a four-day session. They picked 250 to represent the country at Budapest's international farm fair in September.

Hungary produces many varieties in addition to the Golden Tokay best known abroad. And emphasis on high school driver training and establishment of traffic court "driver retraining" schools in every community with a vocational school.

There were also the heady red "Bull's Blood" from Eger; Badacsony from the shores of Lake Balaton; spicy Somlo from a little farther north, and many other kinds.

Though the Hungarians take their wine tasting seriously, there was an informal atmosphere about the meeting at Vajdahunyad castle. Some of the judges were even smoking cigarettes, which would make a French wine taster call for the police. Most sat around a big table in their shirt sleeves.

Lajos Borbas of the Agricultural ministry explained that wine drinking habits here are somewhat different from France's.

Public May Oppose Super-Government Plan

Thelen Warns 'Emergencies' Ought To Be Clearly Defined by Law

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Local civil government spokesmen have warned that public opinion will be cool toward proposals to set up "super-governments" to operate within Wisconsin in the event of a civil defense emergency.

A. J. Thelen, long-time secretary of the Wisconsin County Boards association, advised a legislative committee studying new civil defense legislation for Wisconsin that the legislature must carefully and clearly define the "emergencies" under which the civil defense machinery would supplant the authority of existing county, city and other local government officials elected as responsible leaders of their jurisdictions.

"Otherwise I doubt that you will be able to pass it in the legislature," warned the veteran legislative observer and long-time legislative counsel for the organized counties.

George Rice, for the Milwaukee county board, and Ed Johnson, for the League of Wisconsin municipalities, expressed general agreement.

Name Drafting Group

The legislative group charged with reviewing civil defense legislation named an 18 member drafting committee to prepare recommendations in various fields. It will work in smaller groups on topical matters, including the relation of the civil defense organization to the duly organized civil governmental units in the event of emergency.

Col. John Fitzpatrick of the civil defense office told the legislators that the present civil defense law is weak with respect to "command authority" in the event an emergency arises.

He said in most instances defense authorities and local government executives have made informal agreements about their spheres of power and responsibility, but suggested that the law should make the matter more clear.

But Thelen cautioned: "If you're thinking about some kind of super-government, you'd better spell out clearly in the law what an emergency is."

LC-K Earns State Berth

Bests Macs, 9-3, in Finals
Of District Semi-Pro Tourney;
Al Harke Cops 7-Hit Victory

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — Little Chute-Kimberly earned its second straight berth in the state semi-pro baseball tournament by defeating the Menasha Macs 9-3 for the district championship here Sunday night.

The combination team gained a berth in the finals by besting Oshkosh 7-3, in Saturday night's semi as Gene Peerenboom belted a grand slam homer in the last of the tenth inning.

The Macs got to the final round with a 6-0 blanking of Marinette as Vic Stenson and Mort Drury combined to throw a three-hitter.

Belted For 7 Runs
John Phillips, a teammate of Drury's at the University of Wyoming, started on the mound for the Macs in the championship game and the winners greeted him like a long lost relative.

He was belted for seven runs and 10 hits in the first five innings. The barrage included two homers, a triple and three two-base hits. Drury permitted two runs and four hits in the last four frames.

Al Harke, making his first tourney start, went all the way for the district titlist and stopped the hard hitting Menashas with seven hits, including only four in the first seven.

Bob Schmidt hurled the champions to the win over Oshkosh. He scattered six hits in 10 frames and struck out 17. Bill Lyon started for Oshkosh but left after two innings because of arm trouble. Bob Manthey went the rest of the way.

John De Young Tops Syl Bayer In City Tourney

Stops Defending Champion, 2 Up,
To Avenge Defeat

John De Young got revenge for his smashing defeat in the finals of last year's Appleton City golf tournament as he beat defending champion Syl Bayer, 2 up, in the upper bracket first round of the 1958 tournament at Reid Municipal golf course.

Last year Bayer trounced De Young, 9 and 7. This year De Young gave Bayer no chance, as he had Bayer down from the start and was never behind. De Young had a 73 and Bayer a 75. Bayer had started the tourney in fine form, with a 73 to share medalist honors with Howard Bowers in last week's qualifying round.

Bowers Falls
Co-medalist Bowers lost, 4-3, to Gil Stordock in the lower bracket.

In other Championship flight upper bracket matches, "Babe" Bayer beat John Studel, 5 and 4. Fox Valley Amateur Champion John Lindberg and Bill Wood both won by 1 up scores over Wilbur Murphy and John Hurley, respectively.

Krick defeated Leo Cops, 6 and 5. Bob Hogan stopped Jim De Young, 3 and 2, and Sherm Heideman beat Joe Kniece, 6 and 4. The remaining match between Art Nielsen and Paul Schmidt is as yet unplayed.

In the lower bracket, Jack Williams decided Les Abel, 2 up; Rube Demand, Jr. won, 3 and 2, over Don Jabas; and Owen Hurley took a close 1 up win from Don Sprague on the nineteenth hole. Elmer Selig knocked off Joe Ackerman, 6 and 5. "Doc" Wonsler eliminated Tom Sheehy, 4 and 3, and Bill Gmeiner defeated Ham Baldock, 2 up. Al Baerenwald won from Bob Geenen, 3 and 1.

Colavito's 2 Homers Help Tribe Smash New York Twice

Camilo Pascual Allows Tigers Five Hits in Senators' 4-3 Triumph

By the Associated Press

Just when Casey Stengel was ready to retire to his ivory tower to dream World Series strategy, along came this fellow Rocky Colavito. When Colavito finished his Sunday workout, Casey's New York Yankees had lost a doubleheader to Cleveland.

Ricky started slowly. In the 7-2 first game he only hit a 2-run homer. But in the 7-2 second game with the score tied, the bases full and Bob Turley, the majors' leading pitcher, on the mound, he smashed another homer.

Boston galloped back into the Griffith came in and put out the fire, retiring Dick Lombardi on a fly out. Thus the Foxes blew a 3-2 lead, and Nodarse was charged with the loss, although giving up only two earned runs.

The Dav-Sox opened the scoring in the first with back-to-back solo homers by Sagers and Mincher. The Foxes gained a run in their half of the first when Bob Tano singled. Dantoni walked. "Tex" Taylor advanced the pair one base apiece by grounding out. Carlos "Potato" Pascual was walked intentionally, and John Marr hit a sacrifice fly to distant left field which scored Tano.

The Foxes went ahead in the third, 3-2. Dantoni was safe at first as Dav-Sox shortstop Bacon bounced a routine groundoff off his glove. After Taylor flew out, Pascual was walked intentionally, but the strategy proved useless as Marr doubled to drive in his second and third runs. Marr was picked off at third when he overran the base and Jim Nisewonger grounded out to end the inning.

Foxes Threaten

The Foxes threatened in the sixth as Billy Bone walked and Griffith singled with none out, but Herlihy came in and quenched the rally as Tano, Dantoni, and Taylor all flied out.

Davenport added two runs in the eighth. Bacon walked, but was thrown out trying to steal second. Sagers walked and went to second on Lynn's fourth single of the evening. Lombardi's double scored both.

Pascual went hitless for the second straight night, but he didn't have a real chance as he drew three walks, two of them intentional, from the wary

Fond du Lac Wins Over New London

Fond du Lac — Fond du Lac's Legion team beat New London here Sunday night, 6-1, in a Fox Valley Legion league game called at the end of seven innings because of the 9-run rule.

Dave Schwark led the winners with 4-for-5, including a double and a triple. Seefeldt got the only extra-base hit for the losers, a double.

Losing pitcher Kringle went all the way. Danny Buss, the second of three Fond du Lac pitchers, earned the decision.

Qualifying Play Begins in State Men's Golf Meet at Milwaukee

Milwaukee — Defending champion Steve Caravella of Madison and three former champions join 173 other entrants in today's opening of the 58th annual Wisconsin State Golf association tournament.

Caravella, seeking his third straight amateur title, does not have to play in the 36-hole qualifications, but the 41-year-old defender said he would try for the medal.

The three former champions, who must qualify for match play, are Bob Johnson, the 1954 titlist; Harland Reich, 1941, and Billy Schaller, 1947, all of Milwaukee.

Play 18 Holes

Each qualifier must play 18 holes at Brynwood and 18 at Ozaque Country club. Match play will begin Wednesday at Brynwood.

Caravella will have to play six match rounds, instead of the usual five, to defend his title. The extra round was added because the match play field will begin with 64 players instead of the usual 32.

One of the toughest challenges to Caravella is expected to be Bobby Brue of Milwaukee, who lost to Caravella in the finals last year. Last week Brue advanced to the semi-finals of the Canadian amateur tournament at Toronto before he was eliminated.

Other Challengers

Other leading challengers include Jim Lohr of Sheboygan, winner of the 1958 Northeastern Wisconsin crown; Jackie Allen of Madison, the University of Wisconsin star, and Ken Berke of Brynwood, winner of the recent Milwaukee district title.

Marty Gharrity, Jr., Shawano, will be seeking his third straight title in the junior division of the meet. The low 31 scorers in the field of 72 juniors will join Gharrity in match play.

Pro Mike Benerscutto and amateur Paul Ingrassi of Racine won Sunday's preliminary best-ball event with a score of 65 at Brynwood.

Conferences Seem Forerunner of War

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — What are the chances of a big war? Summit conferences in the past have been primarily held to satisfy a wishful public opinion, but usually national positions have so hardened on vital issues that by the time such conferences are held it is too late to avert war.

Based on history's record, this correspondent believes that the chances of World War III breaking out suddenly are about fifty-fifty.

It is amazing how widely the impression prevails before a war that there will be no war. This writer remembers how convinced he was from reading the press of 1913 and 1914 that there would not be any world war. He recalls, too, how many competent observers returning from Europe in the summer of 1939 were saying there wouldn't be any World War II.

Other Conferences
Reviewing the most significant of the summit conferences of history, it will be recalled that kings and emperors visited each other back and forth prior to 1914, and there was plenty talk of disarmament and of prescribing neutrality for the buffer states like Belgium. When, however, the archduke of Austria was assassinated in Serbia in June, 1914, it was the spark that set off World War I. Two small countries had dragged the big countries into it, but behind it all was the fundamental cleavage of the larger powers.

Again in the 1930's there were plenty of top-level conferences with both Hitler and Mussolini. The cry of nationalism was heard often, as when Hitler demanded that Germans in Czechoslovakia be reunited with their fatherland. Concession after concession was made to Hitler.

One month before that war broke out, another summit conference — in August, 1939 — was held in Berlin, when Molotov and Hitler signed a 10-year nonaggression treaty. This meant that Hitler had a free hand to attack the west because he was sure of Stalin's neutrality on the eastern front.

Even during World War II the summit conferences were ill-fated and, in a sense, laid the foundation for another war later on. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill got together at Yalta early in 1945 and arranged for Russian entry into the war against Japan.

dam in 1945, President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain and Premier Stalin agreed to divide Korea and give the Soviets military control of the northern section. After setting up a puppet government, Soviet troops withdrew at the end of 1948. American troops pulled out of South Korea a few months later. Then, early in 1950, the United States announced casually that it wouldn't defend Korea and intimated that this was a UN responsibility. The Soviet Union never believed the UN would intervene or that the United States would fight, and went ahead, therefore, to sanction the invasion of South Korea by North Korea. Moscow boasted later it had supplied arms for the project.

Today there are hopes in Moscow that public opinion in France and Britain will succumb to neutralist doctrine. It does look as if the British labor party, which is reported from so many quarters in Britain as certain to win the next election, wants to go neutralist. It is the friction in the Middle East today—with the Soviet Union openly furnishing arms and money to the Egypt-Syrian rebellion — which is laying the foundation for World War III. The United Nations itself is as powerless to prevent war now as was the League of Nations in the 1930's. For the decision rests, after all, with the major powers—and the leaders of the Soviet Union are convinced that, since France and Britain are weak and pacifistic, the United States will not dare to fight.

Another Miscalculation
The world may be witnessing another one of those gross miscalculations which summit conferences in the past have tended to encourage. For such meetings usually are built on fear by one side or the other and on the impetus of pacifism, which is supposed to be politically popular. The war to expect is not a nuclear war, but what has been called a "conventional war." The build-up for it bears a startling resemblance to what happened before World War I, before World War II and before the Korean war. The last conflict, incidentally, was a non-nuclear war even though both sides had atomic weapons.

Is there an answer? Courageous John Foster Dulles has given one again and again, as he says, in effect: "Don't let the enemy miscalculate. Make your position clear, that you will fight if it becomes necessary."

The landing of American marines in Lebanon is a historic warning. Premature withdrawal of the American and British forces as a result of a summit conference in New York might be fatal—it could be misconstrued by Moscow as a sign of weakness. It might unwittingly encourage acts by members of the Soviet bloc that would bring about "free and independent" at the summit conference at Pots-

Easter Seal Camp

Loping, Laughing Campers Find Outdoor Fun at Wawbeek Sessions

BY BETTY KILICH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Camp Wawbeek, on a high, spacious plateau poking up from the sweep of the Wisconsin River valley, an electric wheel chair comes whirling by propelled by a young woman with immobile legs.

Not too far behind her comes another wheel chair, this one bearing another teenager and propelled by a pal who hobbles along with the aid of a cane.

A laughing, chattering group of boys and girls sit in the comfortable shade of a chestnut tree, planning their day's activities and teasing each other about the results of the morning's baseball game. Some sit in wheel chairs, others sprawl on the circular bench built about the base of the tree, their crutches and canes strewn on the ground.

A teenage couple, obviously very fond of each other, sits on the porch of the boys' dormitory holding hands and gazing at the blue Baraboo hills 20 miles away. The boy has a withered leg and the girl has a withered arm. Both probably were polio victims in their younger days.

Handicapped Campers
For at Camp Wawbeek—the Wisconsin Easter seal camp about a mile and a quarter from Wisconsin Dells—physical disabilities are a prerequisite for admittance.

Each year hundreds of children and adults attend 2-week sessions, participating in regular camping activities, developing new friendships and learning that so-called physical handicaps are not as restricting as some think.

When this Post-Crescent reporter visited, 106 campers, over 60 of them in wheelchairs, ranged in age from 15 to 20 years. Periods earlier in the year were devoted to younger children, while following sessions will draw handicapped adults from over the state.

Capacity Crowds

The camp always is filled to capacity and each session has waiting lists, some of them several pages long, according to Ronald Friberg, director.

At first glance, Camp Wawbeek looks like other summer camps. All buildings are arranged in an ellipse on the 3-acre plateau with the remaining 400 wooded acres spread out below.

Large boys' and girls' dormitories are among the newer buildings while other structures include a smaller boys' dorm, the administration building, housing for guests and personnel other than counselors and, probably the favorite of them all, the castle—now used as a recreation hall.

The latter was the original building on the plateau built in 1899 when a Milwaukee attorney owned the land and used it as a summer residence. The acreage and original buildings were donated to the Easter Seal society in 1938, a camp since then.

A closer look at the site, however, indicates this camp is unique. There are no stairs, for instance. To get from the porch of the boys' dorm to the lower-level swimming pool, one travels along a gently-sloped ramp, laughing campers 330.

To gain entry to any of the buildings, one goes through double swinging doors shielded at foot level by scuffed metal sheets.

In the maintenance garage, not only are the camp's cars and trucks repaired but the woes of stubborn wheel chairs are administered to and drops of grease deftly applied when wheels run dry. And the patient handyman takes on all broken crutches and canes which may have gotten some extra-rough treatment during leaps off and paddles to the side for another go at the campers agreed, was a demonstration by the Wisconsin Dells fire department climaxed by a free-for-all water fight with the fighters alike getting doused.

Overnight campouts also are offered to those wishing to participate. Friberg continues. On the end of the diving board, shouts. And all along the edge are the inevitable wheel chairs, these cars take campers and alumni.

empty of campers and draped with towels.
"Our idea is to provide recreation and fun for our campers," Friberg, who is a field man for the Easter Seal society during the rest of the year, explains.
"We don't offer orthopedic treatment as such and we don't have a therapist at the camp. But most of our counselors attend college and are training for therapy work so it's a good experience for them, as well as for the kids."

Counted Among Best
"Over 7,000 children and adults have vacationed here since the camp began and ours is considered one of the finest camps for handicapped people anywhere in the United States. There are about 45 others in the country."

Varied activities are offered throughout the day. Baseball games are modified to campers' abilities, as are all other games, a photography lab is well-equipped for the campers' convenience and a crafts room is available for handicapped work.

Evening activities, too, cover a multitude of recreational areas. There are dances some nights, sometimes full-length movies are shown, a water show may be scheduled or skits may be developed.

Highlight of the last session, the campers agreed, was a demonstration by the Wisconsin Dells fire department climaxed by a free-for-all water fight with the fighters alike getting doused.

Overnight campouts also are offered to those wishing to participate. Friberg continues. On the end of the diving board, shouts. And all along the edge are the inevitable wheel chairs, these cars take campers and alumni.

their gear to the lower wooded area where they cook supper, sleep in tents, cook breakfast and return to the plateau after the morning meal.

"We have campers with a wide variety of disabilities," he reports, "and they seem to group together according to their abilities. There are kids suffering from muscular dystrophy, polio, accidents, birth deformities, multiple sclerosis and arthritis. The greatest percentage each year have cerebral palsy."

"The camp is supported by the Wisconsin Easter Seal society along with donations from other sources."

Fee Arrangements
"The state society pays half the camping fee, $56 for each two weeks, for each camper and the remainder comes from other sources. Often a child is sponsored by a service organization in his home town. Sometimes parents pay the other $56 and often county Easter Seal societies pay the remaining fee for several youngsters from their counties."

He also speaks of the inevitable pairing off of starry-eyed teenagers—and young adults. If the evening is agreeable, there may be several couples wheeling away from the crowd seeking a secluded moonlit corner for their whisperings.

Several marriages have resulted from meetings at Camp Wawbeek, the director announces, and this year's outstanding handicapped couple of the year, named by the Easter Seal society, are Wawbeek alumni.

A Variety of Activities, Most of them carried on from wheel chairs, keep days busy at Camp Wawbeek, the Wisconsin Easter Seal society's camp for handicapped children and adults near Wisconsin Dells. Sharp Decrease in Sex Hormones May Hurry Aging Process

Salt Lake City — The sharp drop in the secretion of sex hormones in elderly persons may hasten the aging process, according to Dr. Edward Hashinger of the University of Kansas medical school.

He says there now is considerable evidence to support this theory and added these hormones are necessary for many body functions, including the maintenance of strong muscles and bones.

Dr. Hashinger told a medical symposium that thyroid deficiency also may contribute to rapid aging. In both cases, he says hormones can be given in pill form to help compensate for the lack of natural substances.

"None of these things is an elixir. The most we can ask is that people are not allowed to vegetate in their later years."

Neenah Church Votes Property Purchase

Members of St. Mark's Congregation to Buy
Three Acres on Highway 41, Geiger Street

Neenah — Members of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church approved the purchase of property for their new church at a special congregational meeting Sunday.

By a substantial majority, the congregation authorized the purchase of three acres of land on present Highway 41. The property has a depth of 180 feet on Geiger street as its south boundary and a frontage of 765 feet on the east side of the highway, extending north to a service station.

Subject to the approval of the board of American missions of the United Lutheran Church of America, the property is being purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Geiger of Winneconne.

$4,000 Payment

The congregation will make a down payment of $4,000 which was received from St. Paul's Lutheran church as an organizational day gift. Except for an additional $500 to be supplied by the congregation, the mission board will finance the remainder of the cost at a low interest rate.

The proposed purchase is the initial step in the congregation's plans to embark on a building program in the near future. The goal is to have the first unit of the church ready for occupancy sometime next summer.

General Chairman

Robert Erdmann is the general chairman of the building committee, which is planning a fund-raising campaign and making preliminary building studies.

Assisting him on the executive committee are William Dresser, vice chairman; Forrest Stuenkel, second vice chairman; Lyle E. Pingel, publicity and education; and Robert Kuehl, architecture and building.

St. Mark's began holding services last September and was officially organized Feb. 16, 1958 with a charter Baptist membership of nearly 300 children and adults.

Its organizing missionary, the Rev. Charles W. Luhn, recently accepted the call to be its first pastor.

Presently the congregation is meeting in a former store building owned by Peter Gehl, located at 70 Main street. A parsonage valued at $17,500 was purchased from the English Lutheran synod of the Northwest earlier this year.

Menasha's 1958 Valuation Recorded Over $40 Million

Assessments Up $616,460; 400
People Notified of Changes

Menasha — An increase of $616,460 in the city's assessed valuation this year brings the total valuation to $40,026,040, Thomas Zeininger, assessor, announced today.

Limited building in the city has kept the assessed valuation increases down each of the last two years. Last year the increase was $694,870 while in 1956 it was $1,333,920.

The biggest part of this year's increase was $332,800, or 10 per cent, for manufacturing improvements. Other divisions showing increases over 1957 are residential land, $50,260; residential improvements, $60,610; commercial land, $6,140; commercial improvements, $29,760; and manufacturing land, $4,860.

Beat Valuation Up

The valuation of boats housed within the city limits rose from $10,900 last year to $30,600 in 1958. Most of the increase was attributed to a new boat dock built off Smith park.

Zeininger pointed out 50.66 per cent of Menasha's taxes are paid by residential land children's story hour at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Neenah Public Library.

44 Wheeler Drivers Feted For Safety

Travel 1,130,000
Miles in 5 Months
Without Accident

Menasha — Wheeler division of Consolidated Freightways, Inc., honored 44 of its drivers at a dinner Saturday evening at Butte des Morts Golf club for completing 1,130,000 accident-free miles.

The company drivers had gone without an accident from Nov. 24, 1957, to April 29, covering some of the most difficult driving periods. W. J. Hahn, division general manager, said today.

Even a parked truck which might be struck by another car would count against the accident record even though a Wheeler driver is not directly involved, he explained. There were no such incidents as that either during that period to mar the record.

Present at the dinner were union representatives from the division's terminals in the town of Menasha, Green Bay, Wausau, Stevens Point, Madison and Milwaukee. John Abfelder, Indianapolis, Ind., director of safety for the eastern region of Consolidated Freightways, also was a guest at the dinner.

Short Cruise Becomes Long Voyage for Oshkosh Youths

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — What was to be only a short cruise across the mouth of the Fox river turned into an extended voyage for two Oshkosh boys, Gary Grant and Delos Ryant, both 13.

The two youngsters had been given a leaky homemade rowboat and had "fixed it up" with a bedsheet sail, an improvised rudder and some flat boards for oars.

Friday morning they set off on their maiden voyage which was the last for the boat and nearly the last for the two young mariners. Their first mishap occurred when the board they were using for a mast broke and the boat with its two voyagers began drifting from the river mouth into Lake Winnebago.

Afternoon found them off shore along Point island south of Oshkosh where they attempted to serve as boat motors and propel the boat to shore by kicking their feet.

Climb Into Boat

Getting nowhere they climbed back into the boat and woe fully watched the sun go down. "We didn't sleep much during the night because we had to keep bailing out the boat with some tin cans, and we kept losing the tin cans," Gary said.

Dawn found the boys within sight of cottages along the shore north of Fond du Lac. They tore a seat out of the boat and paddled to shore.

Back on dry land they made their way to a highway and hitchhiked into Fond du Lac. Northwest of Fond du Lac they were picked up by Dr. E. H. Pawlat of Fond du Lac who took them to his home, dried them out, fed them and called Fond du Lac police who notified the Winnebago county sheriff's department which returned the boys to their worried families.

Tourney Sidelights

Macs' Drury Chosen Top Pitcher in District Semi-Pro Baseball Meet

Menasha — Hurler Mort Drury was the only Menasha Mac player to be awarded an individual trophy in the district semi-pro baseball tournament which closed Sunday night at the ball park. The Macs bowed to Little Chute - Kimberly 9-3 in the finals.

Drury was selected as the outstanding pitcher in the meet. He hurled 18 innings in three games and only allowed two runs and nine hits. He pitched shutout ball for the first 16 frames. The southpaw hurled a two-hitter against New London, pitched hitless ball in five innings of relief in Saturday's 6-0 semi-final win over Marinette and was touched for two runs and four hits in four innings in the title game.

Other hurlers in the running for the award were Bob

Schmidt of Little Chute - Kimberly, who pitched a six-hitter against Hortonville and allowed six hits and fanned 17 in Saturday's 7-3 10-inning semi-final win over Oshkosh, Al Harke of L-C-Kimberly, winner in the title game, and Oshkosh's Bob Manthey.

The top hitter award wasn't decided until the final innings of the championship game. It went to Jim Nirschl of the titlists, who had a .636 on 7 for 11. He had 5 for 7 going into the championship game.

Isakson Boat Places First In 'E' Event

Neenah — Eric Isakson sailed his White Star to first place in the Neenah Nodaway Yacht club's E scow regatta Saturday afternoon. Sunday's regatta was called off during the first leg of the races because of inclement weather.

Tim Catlin's Ro-Dam-U-Row was second in the "E" race and Frank Grundman placed third in a field of seven in his Rascal.

R. H. Larsen sailed his Attemp home first in the A scow race. The Buckstaff boat of Oshkosh was second and W. R. Kellett was third in the Winnefox.

John Snyder's Loreen placed first in a field of three in the lightning class race. Bill Galligan's Palatu was second and Robert Briggs' Never third.

There were no D scow or Genoa division races because of out-of-town regattas. Only one boat went out in the club division.

City Dump Fire

Menasha — Firemen were called to the city dumps on Plank road at 6:35 Saturday night to extinguish a fire on the west bank.

at Laudan, 11-13 at Hoover and 14-16 at Doty. The boys 10 and under vie at Second Ward, 11-13 at Cook and 14-16 at Washington.

Competition is scheduled in box hockey Tuesday. There will be events for both boys and girls allowing the teams to double their point totals.

The girls 10 and under play had 5 for 8 going into the final game and collected one hit in four tries to close with an even .500. Also in the running were Len Heinbigner and Darold Eggert of the Macs who had 6 for 9 and 5 for 9 respectively in the first two games. Heinbigner had two hits in four times at bat and Eggert went hitless in three official tries.

Gene Peerenboom, Kimberly outfielder, named the most valuable player, came fast and made 3 for 5 in the championship game to close with 7 for 13. His grand slam homer, accounted for the 7-3 win over Oshkosh.

Jim Fuhs, Oshkosh catcher, was judged as the best prospect. He had a .375 mark for two games and played well defensively.

Because it had very little meaning, no third place game was played. Instead Oshkosh and Marinette, the semi-final losers, flipped a coin and Marinette won. Both trophies are the same size.

The championship game was played before the largest crowd of the season with Little Chute-Kimberly having, by far, the largest rooting section. The final game was delayed about 30 minutes so that the field could dry. It was almost cancelled but was rescheduled again when the afternoon rain stopped and the skies brightened.

Among the spectators at Saturday's semi-finals was Tom Fischer, Washington Senator scout. While going through the lineups between games, he remarked that he signed Dick Bixby, Oshkosh shortstop, back in 1941 when he was still with the Philadelphia Phillies organization.

Although the semi-finals, like the early round games, had an hour, 50 minute time limit it didn't have to be enforced in either case. The final inning in the Mac-Marinette game got underway about three minutes before the deadline and the Little Chute - Kimberly Oshkosh fray was docketed at the 1:50 mark and went on into extra innings.

11 Injured in Auto Accidents Over Weekend

Seven Hurt When Car Backs Into Path of Vehicle

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — Eleven persons were injured in traffic accidents during the weekend. Seven people were hurt when cars driven by James L. Wright, 31, Chicago, Ill., and Edwin M. Winkler, 41, Gillett, collided.

Wright was traveling south on Highway 41 in the town of Vinland at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the Winkler car backed onto the highway, county police said. Wright was unable to stop his car before colliding and hit the left side of the Winkler vehicle.

Injured were the two drivers, Wright's wife and three sons and Olga Veilsuss, Rhinelander, and Arlene Kurilla, Chicago, both passengers in the Wright car.

The brakes of a car driven by Catherine A. Sopkovich, 17, Neenah, did not hold when she tried to stop at the intersection of Highways 114 and 41 in Neenah, causing her car to run into a car driven by Peter J. Hrubicky, 313 Sherry street, Neenah. Both cars were going east on Highway 114 at 4:55 Sunday afternoon. No one was hurt.

Loses Control
George J. Gutzke, 63, 521 Second street, Menasha, lost control of his car when it hit the right shoulder of County Trunk A near Paynes Point road in the town of Vinland at 12:28 Saturday afternoon. In an attempt to get back on the highway, Gutzke's car traveled 215 feet and rolled over four times ending upside down in the ditch along the road.

The Neenah ambulance was called but Gutzke refused to go to the hospital.

Jerome H. Rhoden, 17, New London, fell asleep at the wheel of his car at 12:57 Monday morning while driving north on Highway 45 in the town of Vinland. He struck five highway posts and a stop sign. Rhoden and three teenage passengers were uninjured.

Vehicle Turns Over
Three persons were injured at 7:36 Saturday evening when the car driven by Richard B. Eliasson, 23, 406 Ninth street, Menasha, went out of control and turned over at the intersection of County Trunks D and B in the town of Poygan.

Eliasson suffered cuts on his arms, forehead, and received a stiff neck. Passenger William Baitinger, 21, 316 First street, Menasha, suffered lacerations of the face and abrasions of the right shoulder and scalp. Another passenger, Henry D. is dipped into the corners of the pool. The main pool is done by walking on the bottom and the diving section is done by two swimmers holding the screens while swimming.

The direction of the wind and the number of bugs vary the time and procedure of this measure. Sometimes all the bugs are collected from one point, making it unnecessary to screen the entire pool.

The wading pool is scrubbed and hosed each day, along with the deck area and gutters. The fence surrounding the pool is also hosed or brushed daily. The bathhouse, face of filter building, diving tower and boards, guard chairs and ladders are also cleaned each day.

A neutralizing chemical soda ash is put into the pool to counteract the acidity of the water caused by the constant chlorination. Other daily activities in addition to supervising the swimming is the raising of the flag located in the back of the pool and the check of ladders and diving boards for any deterioration of equipment.

Daily Maintenance Work Keeps Pool in Top Shape

Menasha — The behind-the-scenes daily maintenance work done at the Menasha municipal swimming pool is one of the major facets making possible hours of summer enjoyment for Menasha youths and adults.

About 1 1/2 hours is spent each day cleaning the pool and surrounding deck area each morning before the pool is opened.

The filtering action of the pool takes 100,000 gallons of water out of the pool every pending upon the need. After the day's swimming the water circulating through has ended body oils from the filters and back into the swimmers rise to the top of the pool. From 9 o'clock in the evening water and form a ring around the edge of the pool, compared to a bath tub ring. Each morning this is removed by the diver scrubbing with a brush and a cleanser powder.

The pool is screened each day prior to opening. Screen vacuum cleaner with 100-foot hoses is fastened to aluminum rods,

An Underwater Vacuum Operated by Richard Taves, at top, helps to keep the Menasha Municipal swimming pool in top condition every day. In the middle picture Judy Gavinski is shown while she uses a screen to dip floating debris from the pool. Jan Vissers, above, uses a brush and cleanser and lots of "elbow grease" each morning when she removes a ring along the pool. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Italian High Couture Artists have given the lady of fashion an opportunity to turn her back on the sack this fall. They have spurned the loose-line garment for one displaying a hiked waistline—elevated to around the ribs. Winter and fall designs include a knotted cocktail dress, left, fashioned by Adria of Rome in two shades of gray wool with fringe of Angora wool. Camisene of Florence created the after-skiing outfit, second from left, in violet and red velvet with designs of glasses. Second from right is gray velvet cocktail dress with light and dark gray flowers with red borders, by Patrick De Berentzen, a Frenchman living in Italy. Tailored dress, right, of orange-red velvet, with printed flowers, is also by De Berentzen. (AP Wirephoto)

Couture Artists Show Wares

Italian Parade Closes: Nix to Sack

Florence, Italy — A lady of fashion looking ahead to her fall and winter wardrobe has a chance to turn her back on the sack. Italian high fashion designers gave her the chance in their 1958 showings which ended in the feminine shape out of a bag and putting it into a box. This solid geometry was applied to seven-eighths length jackets — with straight matching skirts continuing on to mid-knee — and pullover coats with wide middie necklines and slightly tapered sides. Sometimes the result is like a fuzzy kite. Sometimes it is like an animated cartoon in appealing colors. Either way, it is unique and judging from sales reports, buyers found it seductive. Carosa's cherry tween suit was typical of the daytime tendency toward colorless. Bo-peep sheaths worn with short, loose jackets or under hairy coats with mounting collars or convertible hoods.

To do this they adopted an elevated band around the ribs — with variations, naturally. Destined for U.S. The presentations of fall-winter styles began in Rome, then moved to the baroque White room of the historic Pitti palace in this Italian renaissance city. One hundred sixty buyers and reporters watched a steady parade through the White room of some 1,500 examples of what the designers hope will be tripping down Fifth avenue in a few months. The models represented the foremost names in Italy's high fashion industry — Carosa, Simonetta, Fabiani and Roberto Capucci. Capucci, an exponent of creative courage in Italian design, introduced the "card-board container look." The entire torso seems to be boxed in. This has the effect of taking the family has been firmly set in allegiance to one party and the child of the house surprises them by announcing his belief in one that they have always considered impossible. Or it may be the young person who has been guided toward a certain profession or a place in his father's business, coolly proclaims a change in his ambition. He intends to do something quite different. One boy whose father had always accepted the idea that his son should take over his business shocked his father at the close of a college course by saying that he had changed his course and intended to study for the ministry.

Great Shock Perhaps the greatest shock to a parent who has gathered wealth and is happy about the thought that his children will benefit by it is to have one of them say, "I would rather earn my own way. I think you have too much money. It should be shared with the less fortunate." That's hard to take by one who has toiled hard, always persuading himself it was for his children. The time comes when parents must stand back, hope for the best, offer advice when it is welcomed and be silent when it is brushed aside. Above all, no anger. A little time, a few experiences and the youth becomes the adult, chastened but, we hope ready to go forward in his crusade for world betterment.

As wardrobe fill-ins for an August vacation, fall cottons make fashionwise choices. They look fresher in transit and on the holiday scene than jaded summer clothes. And without loss of prestige, they will carry through the autumn on home grounds. Straight or blended, these cottons achieve the appearance of the luxury silks, wools and knits that befit any locale, at any season. Colors reflect the fall fashion palette with such shades as moss green, burnished copper, brilliant blues, chrome yellow and poster orange. Printed with massed hot-house flowers, evening cottons have the mark of year-round styling. Moreover, new cottons keep pace with incoming silhouettes. The trapeze line, the Empire chemise, blousing—all are represented. Could be, an acquisition or two would get you there and bring you back in high style!

Size a Problem When You're a 11-Year-Old Fan of the Cinema

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN: This is an unusual kind of a problem. I've never seen it mentioned in your column before.
I'm a young guy 11 years old, but I look like 15 or 16. Whenever I go to a theater and ask for a child's ticket the cashier asks me "Where'd the Ann Landers child?" A few places I've been told "O.K. this time, but from now on you'll have to buy a full-fare ticket."

My dad gives me just enough money for a child's ticket. He says to tell them I'm big for my age. The kids don't like to go to the show with me because there's always an embarrassing scene at the box-office.
MOOSE
DEAR ANN: Ask your dad to get a photostated copy of your birth certificate. Carry it, along with some current identification. Present it to the cashier the next time the question of age is raised. Believe me, Son, you'll have to do this only once.
DEAR ANN: My husband and I were married two months and he was sent overseas. He writes that he's stationed 60 miles from the nearest town so he seldom goes off the post. He says cigarettes are a dime a pack and movies are a quarter. I can't understand why he doesn't send me any money.

I have a good job and save every cent I can. The bank account is in both our names. I also pay his insurance premiums and car payments, as well as support myself completely. Do you think this is fair?
His parents call me on the phone every week and ask the amount of our bank account. They are old - country people and very stingy. I sometimes wonder if perhaps he isn't sending his money to them. Something is wrong and I can't figure it out. I know other wives with husbands overseas and they get a check every month. Please advise - THE WORRIER
You bet something is wrong. Perhaps your husband neglected to let the army know he's a married man. You should be getting an allotment check.
Write to: Chief of Allotments, Financial Center, U.S. Army, Indianapolis, Ind. Send a copy of your birth certificate, your marriage license, your husband's name, serial number, branch of service and location.
DEAR ANN: Five years ago I married a divorced man. His son was 13 at the time and the court awarded him to his mother.
Last week my husband got a call from the hospital in the middle of the night. His son had been injured in an accident and was calling for him. We both went at once. Thank God the boy suffered only a broken collar-bone.

The boy's mother came dashing into the room, threw herself on my husband's neck and fainted in his arms. Believe me, Helen Hayes couldn't have put on a better performance.
She has phoned my husband every day since the accident, asking him to pick her up on his way to the hospital. Of course he can't refuse. She'd like nothing better than to get her hooks into him again. Shall I phone her and tell her to lay off? - THE WIFE
Stay away from the telephone. Telling the woman to "lay off" would be paying her the highest compliment imaginable. It would also give her the impression that you're panicky.
Show your husband in every way that you love and trust him. Suggest he not only drive her to the hospital but home as well. A wife who lets her husband know she has confidence in him seldom has to worry about competition. Many a man has been shoved into involvements by a nagging, insecure wife who put foolish ideas into his head.

HEALTH QUERIES ANSWERED

BY J. A. PANNECK

This department is edited to present a better knowledge of Chiropractic as a possible method of correcting the cause of sickness and in interest of better community health. The writer recognizes great variance of thought on this subject. It is my sincere wish to arouse more interest in the science and make it possible for more people to enjoy its wonderful benefits.
Do you have headaches? Are you troubled with constipation? Do you have pain that you call rheumatism, neuritis or lumbago? See us and ask about your health problems. Let us guide you on the road to health. You may ask the question how can Chiropractic do it. Do you realize that the Creator has so wired the house, namely the nervous system, so it can function normally. Do you know Chiropractic is most efficient to restore health to your sick body. Chiropractic simply restores Nature's avenues of life, gives free expression to the force within and health is the natural consequence. Of course you realize that the spine is the human switchboard from which all nerves are distributed to all parts of the body. If the nervous system is free to function normally it will restore sick parts to health.

Best Suited for Arena

Attic Theater Players Making Most Of 'Angel Street', Suspense Drama

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
The Attic Theater arena production of Patrick Hamilton's "Angel Street" at Jefferson school is an example of a good play being staged in the best medium for it.
The arena theater, in addition to being an economical form of staging, has an intimacy hardly approached by any other form of theater. When a drama of suspense is staged in the round, the art form has found its perfect setting.
At times the opening night audience Saturday stopped being spectators and became witnesses and participants, an experience worth seeking.
Finest of Century
"Angel Street," which gained widespread popularity with its celluloid treatment as "Gaslight," is one of the finest melodramas produced in this century and was, with "Arsenic and Old Lace," the biggest thing in the 1941 Broadway season. It served as a stardom vehicle for Judith Evelyn and set Vincent Price in the character with which he has made currency ever since. The Attic theater is making the most of it.
Mrs. Emmy Bunks Gallaher plays the ailing wife being driven mad by devilishly clever suggestion. Although Mrs. Gallaher, at times, allows the nineteenth century locale of the play to affect her acting style, she carries the audience with her through her harrowing night of revelation and her big solo moments give the evening a special brilliance.

The priceless Price role is handled with kid gloves by George Jagerson. Is there a husband with soul so dead who has not to himself said, "Oh, to be Manningham for a night!" Jagerson is appropriately well-groomed, fastidious, imperious, self-assured. He is equipped with a wonderful voice. He could add a bit more bounce to his portrayal to better come entirely the thorough-going heel. Even lacking the elan, Jagerson's portrayal leaves Manningham without a friend when time comes to pay for his misuse of the driver's seat.

Pixie-Like Policeman
The catalyst that upsets the well-organized Manningham household and brings Manningham to his end is a retired police inspector whose reluctance to close an unsolved case is rewarded.
Sgt. Rough has been interpreted in many ways, but it is unlikely he ever has been as pixie-like as he is in the Attic Theater production. Wavel Cowan adds a sly sense of humor to Rough's purple shirt and pocket flask of courage to make the intruding policeman a welcome character indeed. The diminutive Canadian actor brings the touch of lightness the Victorian piece needs and has fun in his mission.
The Victorian aura of the drama is enhanced by wonderfully authentic furniture loaned by Mrs. Mabel Spoerl.
Mrs. Theodore Cloak has added one more bright item to her directorial memoirs with "Angel Street." The show should, on its merit, become another popular success in this satisfactory season.
Sharing in the success of the melodrama that continues at Jefferson school tonight and next weekend are Mrs. Barbara Spoerl Thiel as the saucy maid marked for conquest by Manningham, Mrs. Thelma DuChaine as the understanding and sympathetic housekeeper and Daril Riley and Paul Gloss as the competent Bobbies.

Sudden Squall Hits County Crops, Farms

Jerome Griesbach farm and the barn doors to the west were blown in and the doors to the east were blown out.

The only damage west of Medina was a large tree twisted down in the front yard of John Schroeder, Dale.

Severe crop damage was reported in the affected area. Oats were shelled out and the corn was stripped. Hail was so fierce, the Rupples reported, that ears of corn were husked by it. Home gardens were flattened.

The Wisconsin Michigan Power company said service was restored in the Medina-Greenville area before 8 o'clock this morning. Some 15 power lines were down in the West Bloomfield area and a special crew was dispatched from Appleton to return service to some 25 customers. Telephone communication to the area in the general vicinity of West Bloomfield, Poy Sippi and Clark's Mills was still out at 9 o'clock this morning. The sudden rain squall swelled flow at the city's sewage treatment plant from a rate of 5 million gallons a day to about 15 1/2 million for the period between 3 to 5 o'clock this morning. However, there was no need to by-pass raw sewage through the plant, a spokesman said.

Gusts of wind were reported as high as 47 miles an hour in Appleton during the 15 minute squall.

Ended Dry Period
The squall was a part of the state-wide rain that helped end one of the driest mid-summer periods in almost 20 years.

The weather bureau described rain in some sections of the state as "of inestimable value to agriculture."

During the weekend the Fox Cities had .74 inches of rain. On Sunday .42 inches fell in intermittent showers and the 32-inch downpour early this morning.

The maximum temperature Sunday was 79 and the low overnight reached 64. The temperature at 11:30 this morning was 74 with the wind out of the west at 10 miles an hour. The sky was clearing.

Survivors include two daughters, Miss Elnora Kopitzke, at home, and Mrs. Edward Becker, Manawa; nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

The Ruppel Farms on Either Side of Highway 10 just east of Medina bore the brunt of damage during the sudden squall storm about 2:30 this morning. Above, chopper wagons were tipped off their wheels and the roof of a silo was blown off at the Sam Ruppel farm. Below, a tree slammed onto the kitchen roof of the Gerald Ruppel farm. Gerald also lost a television antenna and a machine shed was tipped. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Veteran Selling Home, Mortgage Should See VA

A veteran selling his home and GI mortgage should first contact the veterans administration if he wishes to be released from liability to the government on his GI loan.

Such a release protects the veteran in the event the new purchaser defaults in payments, the VA says.

A 1956 law allows veterans to be released from liability to the government, provided the new purchaser meets credit requirements and assumes the veteran's obligations to the government on the GI loan.

The new purchaser need not be a veteran, and the government's guaranty of the loan is not affected by releasing the veteran from his liability.

Release of the veteran from liability to the government does not automatically release him from liability to the lender.

The VA will furnish a prospective buyer's credit report to the lender, and otherwise assist any veteran who wishes to seek his lender's release.

AAL Magazine Describes, Assists Church Activities

Assisting Lutheran church activities and describing related activities is the object of The Correspondent, quarterly trade magazine of the Aid Association for Lutherans.

Included in its articles are descriptions of the AAL home office operations.

Responses to feature articles sometimes come from its 340,000 AAL-member and 6,000 pastors and teachers circulation in the synodical conference, T. H. Hartman, AAL personnel director and editor, says.

Church Activities
An article on Dakota Boys ranch for delinquent and underprivileged boys, for instance, brought donations from individuals and church organizations.

Six pages of the 15-page magazine usually cover Lutheran church activities, especially institutions and activities in the Wisconsin and Missouri synods, Hartman says. These include welfare and mission activities, health and child care agencies and training institutions.

Material comes from news releases from church institutions and on-the-spot reporting. The magazine is printed by an Appleton company.

The magazine began since the AAL was founded in 1902, and Hartman has edited it since 1953. All editorial work is done in the home office, and home office executives make up an editorial board responsible for over-all policy.

Board members are Walter L. Rugland, AAL president; Herbert Voeks, vice president and secretary, and Clarence G. Steinwedel, vice president and secretary.

Book on Victoria's Early Life Termed 'Highly Entertaining'

BY JEAN WILEY THICKENS

For some unaccountable reason innumerable authors in the past 50 years have selected the figure of Queen Victoria as a theme for their biographies and biographical novels. The latest one, "Victoria and Albert," is one of the best.

The author, Evelyn Anthony, is the daughter of a British naval inventor, Miss Anthony began writing at the age of 11, and her first book was published in 1949. Since then she has written several books, including "Anne Boleyn," as well as numerous magazine articles.

Most of the books about Victoria have concerned her later life as the "royal widow of Windsor," while Miss Anthony's book concerns her earlier life, when she first ascended the throne of England at the age of 18 and, a year or two later, was married to young Albert, of Saxe Coburg, a Prussian with a gentle and kindly nature quite unlike what one pictures as a typical Prussian.

To anyone who has studied the character of the queen, it is puzzling why she should have been lauded and praised by some historians in such an extravagant fashion. Actually she was egotistical, dictatorial, insanely jealous of anyone whom her husband admired, and this included her oldest daughter Vicky who possessed the same gentle, lovable qualities of her father, the prince consort.

Was Unsympathetic
Victoria was utterly unsympathetic with the sufferings and hardships of her subjects and had no patience with their appeals for better working conditions.

Because a group of farm workers in one of the northern counties of England rioted and demanded a raise in pay of three shillings a week (approximately 70 cents) over their regular pay of six shillings weekly, she ordered them thrown into jail and held imprisoned for some weeks, plus corporal punishment for the more vociferous rioters. In the mean time their families were often on the verge of starvation.

She disliked her nine children, but her special malice was directed to the young prince of Wales, her son Edward. She was determined that he should never be indulged in any way and when he was finished with his school work at the end of each day, he was not allowed to play with other children of his age and station, but must sit at home reading "edifying literature" and when she learned that his tutor was kind and somewhat lenient with the unhappy young prince, he was summarily dismissed and replaced by a hard-boiled unsympathetic German tutor who allowed him neither freedom nor recreation.

In connection with this theme of the biography, (her hatred of Edward) one should also read "The Gay Monarch" which appeared about a year ago and which relates, from a different angle, much of the same material.

It was not until after the death of her "beloved Albert" however, that Victoria really turned the full force of her venom against her son because she bitterly resented the fact that he would eventually fill the office of ruler, which she had hoped would be Albert's for an indefinite period.

Albert died after they had been married 21 years and his death, like his life, was tragic and pitiful. He had endeavored so faithfully to show his loyalty and admiration for his adopted country, although his heart was always back in Germany from whence he had come. And sadder still, the British people never really accepted him nor appreciated his unselfish efforts that he made for their betterment.

Brilliantly Drawn
The characters of her prime ministers—Melbourne, Sir Robert Peel, Lord Palmerston, Disraeli and various others—directed the political and foreign policies of the country during her 63-year reign are brilliantly drawn. Only a jealous, embittered woman would have continued to remain on the throne instead of allowing her 60 year old son to ascend the throne he had waited so long for.

And so for those 63 years this dumpy, stout, formidable and utterly unlovable woman ruled her land with a hand of iron and showed affection for no one but her consort who never for a moment returned her passionate affection, although he remained a faithful and hard working spouse. But her extreme egotism even tinged her love for Albert, to the detriment of their relationship.

In this biography Miss Anthony has revitalized 19th century England so that her readers can almost see and hear so dramatically, "Victoria and Albert" should prove highly entertaining reading, as well as filling in some of the gaps in the history of that colorful period that have been overlooked by other biographers.

Coppers Up in Mixed Market

Losses Appear After Early Advances on Stock Exchange

New York — (U.S.) — Coppers were higher in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

Key stocks showed gains or losses of fractions to about a point.

The trend was slightly higher in early dealings but more losses appeared as profits were taken on the strong rise of last week.

Chemicals, big gainers last week, were clipped. Motors were mostly steady. The coppers came to life with a sudden spurt.

The weekend business news was encouraging overall but the relatively high level of prices left many stocks vulnerable.

Steels, rails and oils were irregular. Aircrafts and electronics shower a higher tendency.

Kennecott rose about two points. Anaconda well over a point and Phelps Dodge a fraction.

Considerable investment buying and short covering combined with the profit taking to boost activity.

Chrysler ran ahead more than a point in a spate of late buying. American Motors dropped a fraction.

Allied Chemical was off two early then reduced this loss a bit. Du Pont and American Cyanamid fell about a point each.

Firestone hopped more than a point ahead while a loss of equal proportions was taken by Libillard.

Gulf Oil was down about a point. U. S. government bonds eased.
